ROK's Lose Heights

Survivors Tell Of Gas Shells

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD

SEOUL, Friday, Nov. 14 (AP) — Chinese Communists seized Pinpoint Hill early today in a furious battle and South Korean soldier survivors charged the Reds fired suffocating gas into their lines.

U.S. military authorities treated the Korean charge with caution. But the Allies rushed up a chemical warfare team to make a quick investigation.

One of the first Korean soldiers examined was found to be definitely ill. The examining doctor said he could be suffering from fumes of an old artillery shell.

Korean survivors who came down off the ridge told their superior officers that after some Communist shells exploded within their lines they had difficulty breathing.

SMOKE SHELLS?

U.S. officers with the Koreans said soldiers in the heat of battle often mistake smoke or phosphorous shells for gas shells.

Still, they were taking no chances. The Communists repeatedly have charged that the Allies were firing gas shells in Korea. All these charges have been denied.

The Geneva convention outlaws gas. Both sides in the Korean war maintain they live up to the convention.

(Korean battle action reports sometimes have proved unreliable, due mainly to an Oriental concern over loss of face. Recently, a Korean division refused to acknowledge loss of a central front hill position for face-saving reasons.)

The South Koreans had been driven from Pinpoint Hill, highest point on Sniper Ridge, after an onslaught in which the Reds steadily built up to their assault.

1,000 MEN

Elements of two Chinese battalions — possibly 1,000 men — overran the central-front height for the 14th time in a month of battle, field dispatches said. They struck behind heavy artillery fire.

South Korean defenders once more were pushed south to lower heights on shell-torn Sniper Ridge. Heavy fighting still was in progress.

Associated Press Correspondent John Randolph said the Reds hit Allied positions on Pinpoint Hill at 11.10 p.m. Five hours earlier Allied artillery routed about 750 Reds advancing on Sniper from the east.

Pinpoint was the Allies' northernmost stronghold on Sniper. Republic of Korea infantrymen had spent the day mopping up Red remnants after recapturing the hill early Wednesday.

Conventioneers Get 'Roaring' Welcome

High winds which buffeted people about city streets today did not deter delegates attending a conference of the Prudential Insurance Company of America from seeing the sights of Victoria. Over 300 delegates and their wives, representing nine western states, are attending the meeting at the Empress Hotel. Clinging to a railing in the face of lashing winds are four insurance salesmen who ventured out to visit the city. They are Erv. Gillespie, Los Angeles; Jim Dolan, Denver; Burt Risser, Denver, and Rube Nelson, Long Beach, Calif.

50-Mile Gusts Mark Victoria's First Fall Storm, Firemen Busy

Victoria's first wind of the fall today sent storm warnings flying in all Vancouver Island coastal waters, stirred up neat piles of leaves, and blew the city's most pleasant Indian summer for years right off the calendar.

At press time Gonzales Observatory reported winds of 40 miles per hour, reaching 50 in gusts. They will slacken off late this evening to westerly at 30 miles per hour, and will be westerly at 20 on Friday.

Only trouble reported was a power pole blown down on Regina Avenue, and numerous complaints to the B.C. Electric of "service wire" trouble at individual homes.

The wind was powerful enough to break a branch from a tree growing at the Twilight Homes development on Cedar Hill Road at Cedar Hill Crossroad, which narrowly missed one of the dwellings.

City firemen, however, reported the inevitable chimney fires that accompany every high wind. They made four calls, and Oak Bay firemen had one alarm.

"We've had none and we're keeping our fingers crossed," said Saanich and Esquimalt firemen.

STUBBORN FIRE

High winds aggravated a fire started Saturday in sawdust and wood chips dumped in a vacant lot on Douglas Street south of Tolmie Avenue. Three city firemen worked all morning on the stubborn blaze that smouldered deep in the sawdust and wood waste.

Heavy weather was reported in the Straits of Juan de Fuca, and by 11.30 a.m. spray was blowing across Dallas Road at the breakwater into Ross Bay Cemetery.

Ss. Motor Princess turned back from her regular freight run to Vancouver shortly after 9 a.m. because of heavy seas and all tugboats "holed up" in sheltered waters.

Both the government wireless station, Gordon Head, and Pacific Salvage Co. report the air lanes "all quiet."

The wind was general throughout this area, according to the weather office. Vancouver reported wind speeds of 22-28; Cape Flattery 32-40 and Comox 35-45.

By a freak of weather and geography, Port Angeles reported "dead calm."

Winds will decrease as a low pressure centre crosses the coast, according to the weatherman. The forecast indicates westerly winds Friday, with cloudy skies and occasional showers. Temperatures tonight and Tuesday will range between 40 and 50 degrees.

Eisenhower's Korean Trip May Be Delayed

May Be Held Up Until Late November, Early December Owing to Important Commitments

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 13 (UP)—President-elect Eisenhower's trip to Korea may be delayed until late November or early December, authoritative sources said today.

Eisenhower, on the basis of election campaign promises, wants to get to Korea as fast as possible to promote the greater use of South Korean troops in the front lines and explore the possibilities of working out the earliest possible peace "with honor".

The Republican election victor was faced, however, with a lot of demanding commitments in Washington and New York. His press secretary, James C. Hagerty, would not hazard a guess as to the starting date of the Korean trip.

Army Overhaul Promise Makes Legion Happy

OTTAWA, Nov. 13 (CP)—The Canadian Legion's leaders today welcomed signs that an overhauling of the reserve army is under consideration at army headquarters.

Dr. C. B. Lumsden, dominion president, issued a statement on the basis of press reports that a reorganization is under study by Lt.-Gen. G. G. Simonds, chief of the general staff.

He said the Legion's national council "is gratified with the government's favorable reaction to our suggestion for examination and overhauling of the reserve forces."

If the steps taken were sufficient, the Legion was ready to withdraw its call for a royal commission inquiry into the "dangerous weaknesses and inadequacies of the reserves."

NANAIMO 'BATTLE OF AXES'

Wife, Son Charged With Attacking Man

NANAIMO, B.C., Nov. 13 (CP). A domestic battle involving a well-known Nanaimo family continued to be aired today in the assize court here.

Nanaimo City Engineer Arthur Leynard and his mother, Mrs. Alice Leynard, have been charged by Paul Leynard, father and estranged husband with causing him actual bodily harm. He charged his wife and son had attacked him at the home of Mrs. Jessie Green of Royston, where he had boarded for more than a year.

He told a weird story of an ax-wielding battle at the Green home last May 3.

"I saw my wife with a short-handled axe in her hand at the door," Leynard told the court.

"Arthur was right behind her, but I couldn't make out if he carried anything. I clutched the axe, knowing what she is like, and was hit on the head by Arthur," Leynard testified.

He described how he pushed past his son and secured a fire axe from a nearby garage. When he returned he said he found his wife and son trying to break down the bathroom door behind which Mrs. Green had found sanctuary.

"I threatened with my axe unless they stopped, and the cowards, they stopped dead."

Mrs. Green testified that as she hid in the bathroom she heard Mrs. Leynard tell her son: "You leave her to me, she's mine."

Leynard testified most of his 36 years of married life had been spent away from home.

The trial is continuing.

Kathleen's Mate Blamed for Wreck

COURT OVERRULES MALAN; NEW STRIFE THREATENED

BLOEMFONTEIN, South Africa, Nov. 13 (AP)—South Africa's appeal court today unanimously decided that Prime Minister Daniel F. Malan's high court of parliament is illegal. The court's action posed new threats of grave civil strife for the race-torn country.

The appeal court's action left Malan two possible courses of action:

1. He could defy the verdict and call on the high court of parliament to rule itself a legal body.

2. He could accept the decision and call an early general election in which he would seek a large enough majority to re-enact his disputed race laws within the framework of the constitution.

Police have arrested a total of 160 persons today in raids on African districts of Kimberley and East London where 22 persons died in week-end racial riots.

Savage Loses Master's Certificate for Year

By MONTE ROBERTS, Times Marine Reporter

VANCOUVER, Nov. 13—The loss of Ss. Princess Kathleen was due to "forgetfulness" on the part of Chief Officer Charles William Savage, and as a result his master's certificate has been suspended for 12 months.

This was the decision handed down this morning by Mr. Justice Sidney Smith, inquiry commissioner into the sinking of the C.P.R. cruise ship on Point Lena September 7.

The commissioner emphasized that there was "no question of drinking," otherwise the certificate would have been canceled.

MASTER COMMENDED

Capt. Graham O. Hughes, master of the ship, was commended for "seamanlike measures looking to the safety of his passengers and crew, and the possibility of saving the ship."

Capt. Hughes and all other officers were exonerated from blame. Sam Mitchell, quartermaster, was criticized in the findigs for "tardy co-operation . . . in not reminding the chief officer sooner than he did that the ship continued her swing to starboard."

The formal court of inquiry, which heard evidence Wednesday, brought down the following decision:

"We find the stranding and loss of Princess Kathleen due to forgetfulness on the part of Chief Officer Savage, who, in narrow waters, starboarded his wheel and neglected to afterwards steady the vessel on any course prior to the stranding.

"Our task was made simple by the straightforward manner in which he gave his testimony.

"We feel obliged with regret to suspend his master's certificate for 12 months, from September 7 last, the date of the accident, with the recommendation that at the end of six months he be granted for the remaining period of six months a certificate as mate of a steamship in the home trade.

NO DRINKING

"We think it is right to state clearly that there was no question of drinking, otherwise we should have felt obliged to consider the cancellation of the certificate.

"The court deplores the tardy co-operation by the experienced quartermaster in not reminding the chief officer sooner than he did that the ship continued her swing to starboard, in obedience to the last helm order.

"Capt. Hughes and the officers are exonerated from blame, and their certificates will be returned forthwith. We especially commend Capt. Hughes for his seamanlike measures looking to the safety of his passengers and crew, and the possibility of saving the ship.

"Although the question of radar was not in issue here, we note with satisfaction the action of the Department of Transport in providing schools for instructing of ships' officers in its use, as recommended by this court at its last sitting."

(The recommendation was made at the inquiry into the collision between Princess Kathleen and Prince Rupert.)

Mr. Justice Smith was assisted by Capt. J. F. Patrick and Capt. B. L. Johnson, who acted as assessors.

Hospital Bed Shortage Denied

St. Joseph's Answers Charge Of Lawyer Over Paone Case

Vincent Paone, whose death Nov. 6 was subject of a coroner's inquest, was hospitalized at St. Joseph's Hospital six hours after application for a bed was made.

Sister Rose Mary, superior and medical superintendent of the hospital issued this statement today.

It follows a charge reported made by Dr. John Dalton before the coroner's inquest November 10 that he tried to get a bed in the hospital every day "but there were no beds between the eighth and fifteenth of October."

He was reported as saying lack of beds was delaying admission of seriously-ill people into hospitals.

METHOD OUTLINED

Sister Superior at St. Joseph's outlined the "practiced procedure" at the hospital as follows:

"The physician makes a request at the admitting office for a specific patient, giving name, sex, adult or child, and probable diagnosis. Whether or not a bed is immediately available, a record of this request is made. This listing is carried forward from day to day.

"The first application for a bed for the late Mr. Paone was made in the mid-afternoon of October 15. This patient was actually hospitalized six hours later."

George Masters, administrator at Royal Jubilee Hospital also issued a statement today saying "Victoria is not short of hospital beds."

"Victoria is not short of hospital beds," he said, "and we feel it is our responsibility to assure the citizens of this community that this is a safe place to live and that they should not be unduly worried by the thought that illness might find us unable to care for their families."

Finlayson Seeking Tory Leadership

Deane Finlayson, 33-year-old Nanaimo real estate man, said today he will seek the leadership of the Progressive Conservative party at the Nov. 29 convention in Vancouver.

He became the first Tory to announce his candidature for the post to succeed Herbert Anscomb of Oak Bay. Mr. Finlayson's expected candidature was reported in the Times Saturday.

James Bell, secretary of the B.C. Progressive Conservative Association, told the Times from Burnaby today he will nominate Mr. Finlayson "because I feel he can satisfy the demands of all members of the party."

Mr. Finlayson then announced he would seek the leadership.

"I believe the party needs new leadership, and I hope by offering myself as a candidate I can bring together the younger and older elements in the party," he said.

He said he has strong support from Vancouver Island and lower Mainland Tories.

Battle Lines Drawn in By-Election

Britain's 'Pub' System Urged for B.C.

PENTICTON, Nov. 13 (CP)—British Columbia's liquor inquiry commission had a brief before it today proposing that licenses be granted to taverns and bars on the British "pub" system.

The brief was presented to the commission headed by H. H. Stevens of Vancouver by the Penticton Junior Chamber of Commerce.

It suggested that provisions be established for the playing of games other than card games in the taverns and that food be served. It was also proposed that bars be allowed in legitimate theatres, but not in movie houses.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 13 (Reuters)—The United Nations General Assembly today approved without debate the recommendation of its steering committee that the appointment of a successor to Secretary-General Trygve Lie be placed on the assembly's agenda.

Lie announced his resignation Monday.

Plunges to Death

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (AP).—Abraham H. Feller, head of the United Nations legal department, who had been questioned by a Senate Security Committee, plunged to his death today from his 12th-floor apartment.

Police said Feller, 47, and an $18,000-a-year U.N. executive, eluded his wife's grasp and fell to his death.

M' Cousin Zach sez he hopes them climbers reach Mount Everest's peak this time. Sez he wants t' find out what a feller does when he gits there.

SAVE THESE—AND SAVE A LIFE

Local Traffic Picture Bleak; 5 Killed, 214 Injured This Year

By ROY THORSEN

The traffic accident picture in Victoria is darkly depressive.

The 1952 record banishes any doubt, police officials say.

Five persons killed . . . 214 more injured . . . and there have been 783 car-and-car or pedestrian-vehicle accidents so far attended by police.

That, in itself, should be influence enough to cause the average man and woman behind the wheel to be more alert and obey the traffic laws while driving, officers feel.

Quite frankly, city police traffic officials say, unless the motorists "smarten up" there is a good likelihood that last year's peak accident record will be topped.

They point out that the 1951 records show six persons died in traffic accidents. Pedestrians and car occupants injured in the same year numbered 267 and there was a total of 790 "other" accidents in which damage ranged from $50 to total losses. Figures do not include accidents police did not attend, but there were at least 300 of them, some in which persons were hurt.

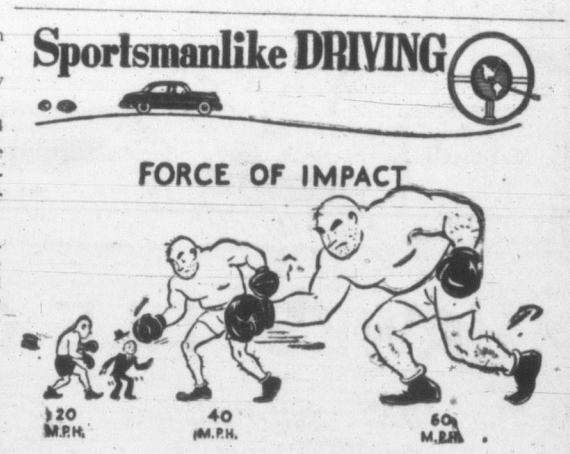
Records reveal that a good 90 per cent of the traffic accidents year by year are due to carelessness in many forms.

The office staff of the city police traffic division each year carefully goes through every accident report to get a statistical picture.

Apart from death and injuries, the damage bill for vehicles involved in collisions would amount to an estimated $1,000,000 during a 12-month period for this city alone, Sgt. Brooke Douglass, chief of the city's traffic division, commented.

"But there's a lot more to it than that—doctor's bills and hospital bills, loss of work hours and loss of key personnel to firms—all of which amounts to a terrific total of dollars," the sergeant commented.

"Safe driving means a safer community, and a better place to live in," Chief of Police John Blackstock said.



Watch Your Speed

Speed makes collisions bad. The force with which you strike a solid object increases as the square of your speed.

In a collision, your car hits four times as hard if you double your speed, nine times as hard if you treble your speed, says the A.A.A. driver training book "Sportsmanlike Driving."

Let the punch of this little man on the left represent your car's striking force at 20 miles per hour. Double your speed to 40 miles, and the punch is that of the big, middle man—four times as damaging. Go 60 miles an hour, or eight times as fast, and the punch is nine times as great. Like that of the brutal giant on the right.

This is why your chances of being killed or injured, or of killing, injuring, or doing heavy damage, shoot way up when you push down on the accelerator pedal and speed up your car.

Watch speed. It gives you a giant's brutal power.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

ON RELAXATION

A MEDICAL professor at an Atlanta, Ga., university has come out in support of more time for singing in the bathtub. As he puts it: "We need more time for reading, relaxing and singing in the bathtub. Present day bath methods and manners are such as to take us away from the physical and spiritual comforts of the lazy, timeless, restful immersion of our bodies in tubs of warm water."

I'm all for more time for bathing, although I have my doubts about encouraging singing with it. From some of the so-called singing that I have heard issuing from our bathroom on numerous occasions I don't know that it adds to the aesthetic atmosphere. But then the singer in my particular instance couldn't be called a singer under any circumstances, ablutionary or cultural.

SHOWER RESTRICTIONS

HOWEVER, I AGREE with the professor's moan about the restrictions of modern day bathing facilities. The old-fashioned bathtub was of a size and shape conducive to relaxation, to the frame of mind that makes even the most tuneless mortal feel like singing for sheer joy.

But, with the shrinkage of the modern home half of them have dinky tubs about the size of an old-fashioned foot bath or else have no bathtub at all, but just a shower. And who feels like singing in a shower, even if they had breath enough left for it?

FOR BETTER LIFE

OF COURSE, WHAT that professor means is that everybody is in too much of a hurry over everything these days. People live at a continual tension. The same idea is expressed by another American, Thomas Saxe, of Stamford, Conn., who has organized the Sittin' Starin' Rockin' Club, with 2,500 members ranging, so he says, from supreme court justices to the policeman on the corner.

He and his fellow-members are part of a rocking-chair brigade who just sit, stare and rock for relaxation, and he figures that if more people did just that when they got the chance more of them would not only live better lives but longer ones.

NO 'DUES OR DON'TS'

HIS SITTIN' STARIN' Rockin' Clubs has "no dues or don'ts" —to quote him—and holds no meetings because that would require too much effort. There again I am inclined to agree with him. There are so many "jiners"—people who "jine" any and every organization, just at the drop of the hat, just for the sake of "jining"—that they expend almost as much, if not more effort, in keeping up with their clubs and societies than they do on their jobs or, in the case of housewives, on their housework.

I'm all for keeping busy and taking an interest in the community and its understandings. But I know people who work themselves to a tizzy in the doing of it, merely because they haven't learned the art of relaxation.

LEISURELY LEISURE

IT'S THE SAME with the businessman who hasn't the sense to leave his business behind him when he goes home, but takes it with him. First thing he knows he is a sufferer from the occupational disease of the executive—stomach ulcers. His business suffers in consequence and his home life certainly isn't improved by it.

As long ago as the first century, a philosopher named Phaedrus wrote: "Give time to your friends, leisure to your wife, relax your mind, give rest to your body, so that you may better fulfil your accustomed occupation."

And whether you do it by singing in the bathtub or just by sittin' starin' and rockin', that sage's advice is as good today as it was nearly 2,000 years ago.

Independent Broadcasters Petition Ottawa on TV

OTTAWA, Nov. 13 (CP)—The Canadian Association of Broadcasters has asked the federal government to allow privately-owned radio stations to enter the television field.

The request was made in a brief presented Wednesday to Prime Minister St. Laurent and members of the cabinet. The brief was made public today by the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, whose membership includes most privately-owned radio stations.

Under present government policy, no licenses for privately-owned television stations will be issued until the C.B.C. has established stations in key points.

While no announcement was made following the meeting with the cabinet, it was learned the broadcasters were given some indication that government policy may be relaxed.

While no announcement was made following the meeting with the cabinet, it was learned the broadcasters were given some indication that government policy may be relaxed.

The National Liberal Federation at its annual closed meeting recently was reported authoritatively to have adopted a resolution urging the government to allow private radio stations to enter the TV field.

'HOOK-UP' PATIENT

New Method to Aid That Ailing Heart

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 13 (AP)—A method of keeping people alive by virtually plugging them into an electrical outlet was disclosed today by the New England Journal of Medicine.

The regional medical publication says that to "hook up" a patient is "simple" and describes it this way:

A thyraton stimulator, about the size of a table radio—"which provides the missing heartbeat"—is plugged into an ordinary alternating current electrical outlet. It converts the electricity into waves or impulses.

Then hypodermic needles connected to the machine are inserted into each side of the patient's chest.

"The needles carry the electric pulse through the thick outer skin which is resistant to electric current," the Journal of Medicine says. "The electrical impulse then travels from a negative electrode, clamped on one needle, across the heart of a positive electrode on the other needle."

The paper says that "if the heart can be kept beating and pumping blood over a period of time, there is a good chance that the normal heart beat will resume again."

The article adds, however, that "if the heart beat stops for long the patient dies."

The new method of giving failing hearts a second chance was developed by Dr. Paul Zoll of Harvard Medical School. He said in his report that the lives of at least two patients already have been saved by this method.

The heart of one patient was kept pumping by electrical impulses for five days.

Canadian Gas Officials Hold U.S. Talks

PORTLAND, Ore, Nov. 13 (BUP) — Officials of Westcoast Transmission Company, the Canadian company which plans to pipe natural gas to the United States, conferred in Portland Wednesday with Charles H. Gueffroy, president of the Portland Gas and Coke Company.

Frank M. McMahon; Calgary, president of Westcoast and chairman of the Board of Pacific Petroleums, Ltd., which sponsors the project, met with Gueffroy.

Purpose of the conference was to discuss price, terms and market arrangements of a possible contract between the Canadian firm and Portland Gas and Coke. Gueffroy said he was convinced of the feasibility of the project, but that the local company is uncommitted yet as to contract.

Contract negotiations depend upon approval from the Federal Power Commission, as well as upon arrangements with potential consumers. The F.P.C. hearing was adjourned last summer and no date for resumption has been set.

Portland would be the pipe's biggest American consumer, taking about one-third of the gas piped from the Peace River, Alberta and the Fort St. John fields.

NANAIMO, Nov. 13 — Trial opened in Assize Cour Wednesday of Arthur Leynard and his mother, Elizabeth Alice Leynard, charged with assaulting Paul Leynard in Royston May 3.

The mother and son were accused of breaking and entering the home of Mrs. Jessie Elizabeth Green of Royston, with wilful damage, and assaulting Mr. Leynard, estranged husband and father.

COAST TV SEEN CLOSER

NEW WESTMINSTER, Nov. 13 (BUP)—Bill Rea, owner of radio station CKNW, New Westminster, says television for the West Coast is closer now than ever before.

In a recorded interview Wednesday night from Ottawa—where Rea and 11 other members of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters met with Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and a number of cabinet ministers — Rea said the government intends to deal with applications for private television stations "on merit, rather than priority."

The station owner says the prime minister is concerned with the growing number of U.S. stations along the international border, and added that Mr. St. Laurent wants to make sure Canadian radio can compete with stations south of the border.

Fall Session of Commons To See 'Political Fever'

By JAMES R. NELSON
British United Press Correspondent

OTTAWA, Nov. 13 (BUP).—Debates on major domestic and international issues in the new session of parliament starting next Thursday will be sparked by the greatest political fever experienced since 1949, Parliament Hill observers said today.

The House of Commons and Senate reassemble for what probably will be their last session before another general election is called next autumn. Leaders and key debaters of all political parties will come to Ottawa fresh from nation-wide grass-roots political tours.

Not since the pre-election sessions of 1948 and 1949 has so much depended on so many issues. Major policy debates are expected to centre on foreign affairs, trade and economics, health insurance, radio and television control, and taxation.

In addition to the main party leaders, their principal lieutenants, including cabinet ministers and opposition critics, have been touring the country extensively since the house adjourned early in July.

The recess has seen a greater influx of M.P.'s in Ottawa than has been experienced in many years.

Members from the farthest reaches of Canada, including Newfoundlanders and men from Northern British Columbia, have spent at least a few days in their Ottawa offices on constituency business. Normally, members from such far-away constituencies do not make special trips to Ottawa during a parliamentary recess lasting only four months.

Their tours were arranged with a two-fold purpose: to let the public see them in person and to let the party leaders get to know local conditions at first hand. What they learned of the attitude of the public on major issues will be paraded before the Commons during the next five months.

Wild Atlantic Lashes Coast

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Nov. 13 (CP).—The season's third North Atlantic storm swung towards Greenland today after lashing Newfoundland with winds of near-hurricane force.

This provincial capital felt the full force of the blow which brought freezing rain and snow.

Power lines were toppled and electric service disrupted in local areas although there was no major blackout. The wind blasted trees and tore at roofs and chimneys.

SON CRIED, FATHER SHOT HIM

Que. Parent Faces Murder Charge

HULL, Que., Nov. 13 (BUP).—A coroner's jury Wednesday night found Roland Charbonneau of Ste. Rose de Lima, Que., criminally responsible for the death of his 15-month-old son Michel, and police said today the 24-year-old farmer would be charged with murder.

Charbonneau had been held by police as a material witness since Monday, after his son died in a local hospital.

Charbonneau's wife, Lucille, 20, testified that the farmer shot his son early Sunday, when the child cried during a family argument.

Earlier, Mrs. Charbonneau told police that the tot was hit by a .22 calibre bullet accidentally discharged in the living room of their farm home. She said the bullet passed through the ceiling and struck the boy where he lay sleeping. He died the following day.

Mrs. Charbonneau said Wednesday that her husband came home about 11.30 p.m. Saturday night under the influence of alcohol. After an argument, she said, Charbonneau tried to commit suicide with a .22 rifle but she stopped him. The infant cried through the argument, Mrs. Charbonneau said, and then her husband went into a room and fired a single shot.

Officer Forgot He Gave Order

Counsel for Chief Mate Provides Explanation at Kathleen Enquiry

BY MONTE ROBERTS
(Times Marine Reporter)

VANCOUVER, Nov. 13. — Charles W. Savage, first officer of Ss. Princess Kathleen, who was on the bridge when she went aground on Point Lena, September 7, "forgot that he gave an order."

This was the explanation offered by Glen McDonald, counsel for Mr. Savage and Captain Graham O. Hughes, as the formal enquiry closed in Vancouver, Wednesday afternoon.

In summing up, Mr. McDonald told the inquiry board, headed by Mr. Justice Sidney Smith, that Mr. Savage had commanded the quartermaster to put on starboard helm, as the ship was drifting a little to port because of winds on her starboard quarter.

"Then he forgot that he gave the order, and did not order the helm steadied up," he said. "He has forgotten the order was given, so was not aware of the consequences."

Earlier, Capt. Hughes told the commission that he left the bridge about 11.50 p.m., after taking the ship out of Juneau, seeing that the course was set, and that she was making 180 revolutions (about 10 knots) as ordered.

He turned the watch over to Jack Meredith, third officer, and retired to his cabin, leaving orders to be called "at 7.30 a.m. or before if required."

Capt. Hughes was awakened as the ship ground into the rocky point, and rushed into the wheelhouse, still in his night attire.

Master Ordered General Alarm

"Mr. Savage reported that we were ashore on Shelter Island," Capt. Hughes said. The shipmaster's next action was to sound a general alarm on the public address system. He told the passengers to dress warmly, and go to their muster stations, and ordered the third and fourth officers to make the boats ready.

He then ordered the chief engineer, Alexander Moffat, to sound the tanks and survey the damage.

"I then checked our position," he said. "I could see a light about 10 miles north, and saw Shelter Island about three miles off our stern, and I fixed our position on Lena Point."

This information was sent to the Juneau radio station at 4 a.m., and a few minutes later Ss. Alaska, which was just leaving Juneau, was requested by wireless to come to Kathleen's assistance.

At 4.20, satisfied from the chief engineer's reports that the ship would float, Capt. Hughes attempted to manoeuvre her off the rocks with her engines. At 4.40 a.m. he gave up the attempt.

After a conference with his officers, he decided to wait until daylight to take the passengers off, as the safety factor would be greater in daylight.

All passengers were off safely, he said, by 9 a.m.

At that time, the ship was on a 10-degree angle fore and aft, and had a 19-degree port list.

Water Poured in Through Stern

Water was coming into the ship through ventilators, windows and other openings in the stern of the ship, and the stewards' quarters aft were filled with water, he said. At 11.30 a.m., it was reported that the after tunnel was full, and Capt. Hughes gave the order to abandon ship. At 1.35 p.m. the ship filled completely aft, lost buoyancy, and slowly sank.

In giving evidence Sam Mitchell, quartermaster, said that at about 2.47 a.m. he was given the order "starboard." "I gave the wheel two full turns starboard, then eased back a turn," he said. "When she came to north ½ west, I said to the officer 'the vessel has starboard helm on and she is coming around pretty good.' The next order I received was 'hard astarboard, and a minute or two later the ship was ashore."

Mr Meredith, the third officer, told the court of going to Mr. Savage's cabin about two minutes past 12, to see why he had not come on watch. He said the first officer was sitting in a chair in his cabin, with his uniform and hat on, asleep.

Mr. Meredith spoke to him, and Mr. Savage said he would be right up.

When the first officer entered the wheelhouse, Mr. Meredith gave him the course, which was repeated.

"He said he felt tired," Mr. Meredith said. "I suggested he put his head out the wheelhouse window."

Mr. Meredith turned the watch over to Mr. Savage after the latter said: "I'm okay."

The third officer said, emphatically, that Mr. Savage had shown no signs of having been drinking.

U.K.-Canadian Loan Payment Up for Talks

OTTAWA, Nov. 13 (CP).—The governors of the Banks of England and Canada will meet here next week to discuss, among other things, the repayment of the 1946 Anglo-Canadian loan, it was learned today.

C. F. Cobbold, governor of the Bank of England, will begin a three-day visit Nov. 17, following talks with federal reserve bank officials in New York.

He will hold confidential talks with Graham Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada, and other federal financial officials.

One of the main reasons for his current trip, it was learned, is to discuss repayment of the $5,000,000,000 Britain borrowed from the U.S. and Canada in 1946.

An annual instalment of some $176,000,000 covering interest and principal on the two loans is due next month, and Britain is expected to make payment on time, as she did a year ago.

The Canadian portion of this loan was $1,180,000,000 and the annual repayment due to Canada next month will be about $37,000,000.

Compromise Rejected On Reparations Issue

MANILA, The Philippines, Nov. 13 (Reuters) — A government spokesman said today The Philippines will accept no compromise on its demand for $8,000,000,000 in reparations from Japan. He denied a Tokyo report that the government is drafting a more lenient plan. The Philippines has not ratified the Japanese Peace Treaty pending a settlement of the reparations issue.

2 Convicted of Drug Peddling to Teeners

VANCOUVER, Nov. 13 (CP) —The fall assize court session here ended Wednesday with convictions in two cases which followed disclosures of teen-agers using narcotics.

James Peter Mason was convicted of giving away a substance purported to be a narcotic to an 18-year-old girl. Patricia Bagstad, 19, pleaded guilty to selling a similar substance to two young girls.

Mr. Justice A. M. Manson discharged the jurors from further service and announced persons convicted during the assizes will be sentenced Friday.

Truman, With Host of Lucrative Job Offers, Silent on Future Plans

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 UP). —President Truman has a briefcase full of offers of lucrative jobs after he leaves the White House next January 20. But so far he has given no indication whether he will accept any of them, White House sources said today.

They said he probably will not announce any decision on his future until at least January 20, and maybe not for several months later.

Roger Tubby, acting White House press secretary, said that all Mr. Truman will tell his aides now about his future plans is that he is not yet ready to talk about them.

Some of Mr. Truman's White House staff have gotten the impression, however, that he intends to go back to his home at Independence, Mo., for a few months after leaving office before deciding what non-government job, if any, he will accept.

Recent White House visitors have related that Mr. Truman expressed interest in taking a world trip and in lecturing and writing about world government in an effort to advance the cause of world peace. But his spokesmen repeatedly have said that there was nothing definite about his plans for either venture.

Mr. Truman began to receive job offers from private concerns shortly after he announced last March he would not accept nomination for re-election.

White House aides said all the letters have been acknowledged. The replies uniformly thanked come from the Resistol Hat Co. of Garland, Tex. Its president, Harry Rolnick, has told reporters the job-offerers for their interest and told them that Mr. Truman would not make up his mind until he left office.

The White House would not divulge details of any of the job offers.

However, the highest offer, salary-wise, was believed to have that he offered Mr. Truman a salary of $250,000 a year, plus travel expenses, to serve as the firm's vice-president in charge of road sales.

The President is also reported to have received several job offers from newspaper publishers and syndicates, either for his memoirs or for a syndicated column.

New Herring Offer Refused By Operators

VANCOUVER, Nov. 13 (BUP) — The stalled B.C. herring operations hit another deadlock Wednesday when the Fisheries Association of British Columbia turned down a price proposal by the T.L.C. United Fisherman and Allied Workers' Union.

The disputing parties met in Vancouver Wednesday where the union advised the operators they were not in agreement with the company's compromise herring formula and over-all price offer of $9.37 a ton.

The union put forward its own price proposal of $15.96 a ton for herring to be used for reduction purposes and $22.25 per ton for herring used for other purposes. In a press statement, the operators said "based on the union's formula, this price would work out to $1.14 for a fisherman's share, which is 10 per cent higher than last season."

The association statement added that "because of the depressed market situation, both price and labor costs would have to be lower and not higher than last year if there is to be a herring operation."

The statement added that "price (for herring) meal and oil—products upon which the herring fisheries depend — are lower than last year with the price of oil half of what it was in 1951."

Strike at H-Bomb Plant Continues

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 13 (AP). Efforts to settle a strike of technical workers at the huge hydrogen-bomb plant here failed today and union spokesmen said picket lines will be re-established next Monday.

About 200 members of the American Federation of Technical Engineers (A.F.L.) went on strike Monday, protesting the firing of six workers for "union activity."

Picket lines were withdrawn Monday night pending further attempts to settle the dispute, affecting 37,000 construction workers.

A company spokesman said five workers were discharged because work a sub-constracting firm is engaged in is drawing to a close and the sixth was released for "excessive absenteeism."

STUART KEATE, Publisher — BRUCE HUTCHISON, Editor

A Victorian in Tokyo

OUR FELLOW TOWNSMAN, THE well-beloved Bob Mayhew, is not going to Japan to manage the protocol of an embassy. He is undertaking one of the largest and most important missions ever entrusted to a Canadian ambassador abroad. Consequences beyond reckoning, for good or evil, may well hang on his success in Tokyo.

While the details will be left to experts, Mr. Mayhew will be Canada's leading representative in the negotiation of a new trade agreement with Japan, and he will be closer to the Japanese government than any other Canadian.

The whole future of Japan, as the friend of the western world or its potential enemy, will depend on Japan's chance to trade and prosper among the free nations. If it cannot find the chance of prosperity in the western world assuredly it will turn towards Russia and China where the light of welcome already is burning brightly in the window.

At a recent reception here Mr. Mayhew put these complex matters in characteristically simple style. "If Japan went Communist," he said, "so would India and half the world population would be gone." He added that if the people of Canada "do not show that they wish to be friends of Japan, that they appreciate their trade and friendship, there is not much that I can do about it."

In this attitude Mr. Mayhew, who was once only a businessman in Victoria, reveals his stature as a statesman probably better appreciated in other parts of Canada than in his home town. As such he knows that he and his government face formidable problems in practical politics when they attempt to promote trade between Canada and Japan.

The economic argument for that trade is unanswerable. A huge Japanese market awaits our exporters, especially the exporters of British Columbia, the opportunity of thousands of jobs in our exporting industries, in our transportation system, in our ports. But if we are to sell in Japan we must buy there. We cannot long maintain a trade in which we are selling far more than we buy simply because Japan must earn Canadian dollars if it is to spend them here.

If the argument is obvious it will be denied by many industries in central Canada which, long protected by tariffs, will cry ruin whenever we buy a dozen gloves or a few cotton shirts in Japan. These interests will throttle trans-Pacific trade if they can and no doubt they will soon find articulate allies in parliament. The question is whether the government can carry through its trade policy against this opposition.

That is only the economic side of the argument. The political consequences involved are infinitely larger and more dangerous. And they are understood not only in Ottawa but in Washington, whose attitude toward Japanese trade will probably prove decisive in determining whether Japan is to remain a friend of the west or not. At least General Eisenhower understands these things.

In a recent statement the President-elect said: "In concert with our closest allies a long-term consistent program should be produced, directing all our economic power toward reviving free world economies and trade as a whole. . . . The problem of re-establishing the economies of Japan and West Germany must be recognized as a problem of the entire free world. . . . There are innumerable economic tensions . . . which must be relieved if ecomonic difficulty is not to be translated into political catastrophe."

Mr. Mayhew's mission to Japan is directed against nothing less than political catastrophe in the Pacific. No one should understand that more clearly than the people of British Columbia, who live beside the Pacific and stand in the full current of events.

Some Impatience Along the Nile

THE REVOLT OF GEN. NEGUIB, which threw King Farouk from the throne of Egypt and promised a new deal for the landless Egyptian peasant, is now entering a period of reaction. This is not to say there is organized opposition to the movement which the Army initiated and carried out. But the inevitable delay between issuing promises and achieving their fulfilment is causing criticism among those who await the reforms.

It is becoming more apparent, for instance, that the changes in land tenure will not provide the answer to Egyptian poverty. The large estates are being broken up, but individual fellaheen will receive only small portions each, comparatively few will benefit, and the distribution will not be made for some time. As this realization spreads, comment on the new regime is becoming more outspoken.

Egypt's traditional enemy, bureaucratic graft, is also a stumbling block to administrative improvement. As one authority has observed, Neguib has changed the Egyptian political scene but not the Egyptian character. The habitual lethargy of the office-holder, disturbed by recent events, apparently is about to be resumed.

Neguib's task, therefore, is a difficult one. Much of his chances of success lie in his ability to apply some reforms at an early date—reforms of sufficient importance and effect to convince the public that ousting Farouk was more than merely the dismissal of one man from leadership, that it meant in effect that a new deal was to be declared for all classes in the Nile state.

The temptation that presently faces Neguib is to divert attention from the current delays by a spectacular trial of Farouk for "crimes" against his country. Apparently the material is not lacking: the King's extravagances, his unofficial borrowing of money from the Nahas government to gamble in the United States, the charges that on the last day of his reign he solicited American help to persuade Britain to aid him with armed force against his enemies.

Such a trial undoubtedly would occupy the attention of Egyptians for a lengthy period of time. But it would do nothing to solve the pressing problems that face the country. It would provide time for opposition to Neguib—and some is to be found in both political and military circles—to solidify. And it would detract from the new Egyptian leader's reputation as a man who so far has put the needs of his country before all other considerations.

Poles Apart

WHILE CANADIANS PRIDE themselves on a living standard equalled nowhere in the world outside this continent, and while the citizens note the increasing importance of this nation in international affairs, the Polish press is engaged in a campaign which seeks to prove to Poles that Canada is a hungry land, moved as a pawn by Britain and the United States.

Details of the newspaper tirade directed at this country from Russia's north European satellite are reviewed in the monthly bulletin of the Canadian external affairs department. Quotations from the Polish press are carried along with the statement that Poland has refused permission to many of its citizens to emigrate to Canada. From this the department draws the conclusion that the campaign is intended to combat the frustration of those prospective emigrants who are not allowed to cross the Atlantic to settle here.

Poland, singing its own variant of the orthodox Communist theme, is doing its best to prove the undesirability of Canadian residence and winding up its vituperation with the childish statement to its own people that, anyhow, they can't go.

The significance of the campaign rests not so much in the attitude expressed by the Polish press, as in the importance Poland attributes to Canada. Were Canada less influential in the affairs of the world there would be no purpose in such vilification.

On some native Poles the campaign may have its desired affect. But even in countries behind the Iron Curtain there must be avenues of communication. And along those avenues must travel information, true information, to Poles of the homeland from Poles who have settled here.

When former nationals of the state which has been absorbed into the Soviet orbit start leaving Canada in vast quantities to resume the joys of living in the fair land of Poland, this nation should begin to worry. Until then, the Polish press campaign can have a limited influence on some of its own people. The majority will be left wondering why those who have emigrated do not come home.

Action on Log and Lumber Trucks

THE VICTORIA AUTOMOBILE Club unquestionably has the weight of public opinion behind it in its advocacy of stricter safety measures for loaded log and lumber trucks on the highway.

The submission it plans to make to Attorney-General Robert Bonner will doubtless command a sympathetic hearing. Recent accidents in this vicinity have drawn attention to the manner in which life and limb, not only of the driver but of anyone else who happens to share the road with him, are endangered by present practices.

The automobile club has suggested a tightening up of safety regulations, proposes a definite limit to the loads that may be carried and urges investigation into fastenings to make sure that chains and other equipment are strong enough to prevent "any possible load slippage."

Presumably the club's approach to the minister will result in definite action, first to determine how effective existing regulations are; second, to see how efficiently they are enforced, and third, to strengthen them where necessary to avoid tragedies which present truck haulage practices invite on our highways.

LOOSE ENDS

Conversation Piece

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

THE intended meeting here between Premier Bennett and Mr. George Drew may cause some embarrassment on both sides. After all, Mr. Drew must take a rather dim view of Mr. Bennett, who is busily wrecking the Conservative Party in British Columbia. And Mr. Bennett may find it difficult to explain why he was Mr. Drew's devoted follower only six months ago and now has no confidence in him. These things are sticky between old friends.

Hutchison

Only to be helpful my friend, Mr. Horace Snifkin, has prepared an agenda for the Drew-Bennett conversations and offers it free to the participants for their guidance.

According to Mr. Snifkin's stage directions, Mr. Bennett will rise as Mr. Drew enters the office and, with outstretched hand, will remark: "George, I'm fairly glad to see you and I trust things are not going along too well."

"My dear Wac," says Mr. Drew, "if there's anything wrong with your government I trust it's not trivial."

* * *

"You may be sure, George, that I have no problems that the Conservative Party won't solve for me, the way it's going. I simply couldn't do without its help. And frankly, I'm pained at the necessity of destroying it. But politics is politics."

"Politics!" Mr. Drew sighs. "Ah, politics! But after all one is rewarded for one's sacrifices by the devotion of so many loyal friends—though I confess that I sometimes wish they would knife me in front rather than in the back for a change. And tell me, Wac, are you having much trouble with your lunatic fringe? I've been reading in the papers that there are even a few Social Crediters in your cabinet but I dare say that's just the usual sort of slander in the Liberal press."

"Sheer slander, I assure you, my dear George. One of these days the papers will even call me a Social Crediter and I'll have them in the courts for libel. After all there should be some decency in public debate."

* * *

"I can sympathize with you," says Mr. Drew, "Why, the papers are actually saying that I favor a Conservative policy of high tariffs and would try to interfere with trade, merely because I want to stop goods moving in and out of the country. I tell you the press is utterly irresponsible these days."

"I don't like," says Mr. Bennett, "to introduce a painful subject, but I think it only fair, after our long friendship, to warn you that the Social Credit party, with which I entirely disagree and for that reason am its leader, intends to take all the Conservative seats in the next Canadian Parliament from the Great Lakes to the Pacific Coast. We don't wish to embarrass you. We only intend to destroy you. This will give me great pain but I think, somehow, I can endure it. And I must say, George, we deeply appreciate your co-operation in our plans."

"Think nothing of it, my dear Wac! What's the loss of a few dozen seats between friends? I'm well aware, of course, that when the chips are down in Parliament I can count on all the Social Credit members to support me. We're all Tories under the skin."

* * *

"Quite so, George, but I hope you will refrain from mentioning that obvious fact outside this room. It might be distressing to some of my colleagues — fine fellows, you understand, but a trifle adolescent and naive shall we say?"

"Quite so, my dear Wac, but couldn't you stop some of those fellows talking about the tyranny of the banks and big business and all that sort of rubbish? After all, those interests are our friends, too, and mighty handy at election time."

"It's a little difficult at the moment, George. You see, we haven't a majority but as soon as we get one you may be sure I'll deal with those lads."

"That is, of course, if they don't deal with you."

"Never fear, George, I can look after myself. Meanwhile, I'm giving them plenty of rope and they'll hang themselves in due course. One must be patient. And if I have to make appropriate gestures in favor of Social Credit, whatever that may mean, don't misunderstand me."

* * *

"Oh, no one misunderstands you, my dear Wac. Your actions are as clear as daylight. We understand each other perfectly."

"Well, goodbye, George. We'll meet again when all this nonsense is finished and we can afford to be ourselves again."

"As for me, my dear Wac, I am always myself. I never change."

"That, George, is why I left the Conservative Party."

"Well, next time you're in Ottawa let me know in advance and I'll try to be out of town."

"According to our time table, my dear George, you'll be out of a job. And if there's ever anything I can do to hurt you don't hesitate to let me know. It'll be a pleasure."

SASKATCHEWAN RATES

Some people in British Columbia seem to think that because the Saskatchewan government intend to raise the rates on their car accident insurance next year, that socialism has failed.

Here are the facts and the figures as given to me recently in a letter from Mr. C. M. Fines, minister of finance in Saskatchewan, who is in charge of that department.

I quote: "At the present time we have not announced what our increase in rates will be. However assuming that we do increase the premium from $10 to $20 for our new cars, we will still only be charging a very small fraction of what the insurance companies in British Columbia are charging.

"Our rates were fixed four years ago. Since that time, in British Columbia, there have been at least two increases in rates, while we have had no increases whatsoever.

"In 1949, a certain car was worth, say $2,000, today it is worth $3,000. So that since 1949 the amount of protection has actually increased by 50 per cent. Then too, the cost of repairs has practically doubled in the last five years.

"The rates of the Saskatchewan government were not too low in 1949, but because of the uncontrolled inflation in this country, it will be necessary for us to increase the rates for next year.

"I might mention also that since we fixed the rates a few years ago, we have increased the benefits and will be doing so again this year.

"I feel sure that when our announcement is made, our insurance policy will be more attractive than before, even though there will be some increase in the rate structure.

SCISSOR vs. BROADBILL

"The Irish are a fair-minded people. They never speak well of one another."

A person of reflective mind attending the recent public meeting at Royal Oak might justifiably have concluded that the population of Saanich was predominantly Irish, for the majority of the speakers showed little inclination to speak well of one another.

Regarding the application of the Portage Parks interests for permission to get started on an exhibition and race track, the scissorbill section seemed to take the stand that horse racing and all its attendant activities are fundamentally immoral and all persons who partake in, encourage or condone such things are of a low moral standard and should be prohibited by law from such activities.

The broadbills, on the other hand seemed to argue that horse racing in Saanich would be a healthy and educational recreation, encourage the breeding and training of fine horses and would be no worse morally than attending races in Vancouver, betting on the Irish sweepstakes, the British football pools, the stock market or the various gambling games that are allowed by the B.C. government even in church halls.

The situation poses two questions for those of our modern propaganda-ridden world who still retain the power to think. How long can Greater Victoria, probably the only city of over 100,000 in Canada without an exhibition or race track, remain in the whistle-stop category? And secondly, what is the activating motive which drives the individual with the "Messianic delusion" to want to regulate not only his own life but also to tell his neighbor what he must eat, drink and enjoy, and what is probably the greatest source of human tyranny on earth?

Could it possibly be the little, old, well-known inferiority complex?

HALLOWEEN DANGERS

Nearlly two weeks ago I stood beside my beloved wife lying on the ground of Central Park, killed by a Halloween rocket that misfired. I was grief-stricken to the point of panic. It was the worst experience of my life and one which I hope will never be repeated. Those in authority have an excellent opportunity to bring about effective control and assure the safety of their public charge. I hope they seize that opportunity.

However, in all fairness I feel a word of praise should be given to those organizations in recognition of the good work they are trying to do by providing some entertainment for youngsters on this difficult day of the year and that a dampening of efforts will not occur because of this tragic experience.

I was very much encouraged at this time of inward trial by the numerous expressions of sympathy; they reassured me that I was not alone and gave me the solidarity to undertake my added responsibility toward my two children. My most sincere thanks.

'NICE BREEZE'

Your correspondent W. Fyfe's letter, "Books and Morals," Oct. 25, is to me—and I am sure many others—like a nice breeze blowing away narrow-mindedness, hypocrisy and other putrid smells, rising up out of all the church propaganda, we are everlastingly subject to in private, over the air—if you don't turn the dial in time—and especially of late, since the newest version of that so-called holy—just the same man-made—Bible saw the light.

Even under the "chosen" one can find, now and then, one who really means and tries to do what he or she preaches; but, what good they may accomplish, they do because they are human beings—like most of us non-church addicts, who live by the Golden Rule—not because they belong to the so-called "reverends."

Difficulties Of The Switch

BY WALTER LIPPMANN
from Washington

THE disadvantages of having to wait three months before the new President and his appointees take over are so many and so obvious that Gen. Eisenhower already is under very considerable pressure to do something to lessen them. There is the budget, which is now being prepared by the outgoing administration, though in fact the next budget goes into effect about six months after President Eisenhower's inauguration. There is the present session of the General Assembly of the United Nations in New York, which has on its agenda a series of momentous problems, beginning with the Korean war; not much can be settled unless the position of the Eisenhower administration is known.

Lippmann

Why, then, it is often said, should not the President-elect appoint his cabinet at once, and in effect proceed with them to Washington, sitting in with the President and the outgoing officials, consulting and conferring with them on all important matters? It sounds so sensible that it seems strange that nothing like this has, as a matter of fact, ever been done when a different party (not merely a new President of the administration party) was coming into office.

It has never been done because the President-elect, once he considers the matter, is compelled to realize that he does not and cannot have the facilities for making important decisions so long as he is not actually in office. To make decisions, therefore, while he is still a private citizen is to accept responsibility before he has the power to judge efficiently and responsibly.

This rule is so important that only in the most exceptional circumstances and in a grave emergency ought the President-elect to depart from it. In wartime, it would, of course, be necessary to avoid any interregnum. This is so obvious that it may be the reason why in fact there has never been a change of party during any of our big wars. The voters themselves have never been willing to run the risk of an interregnum during a war. Invariably they have refused to change horses while crossing the stream.

EMERGENCIES

One can imagine emergencies of comparable gravity in this time of cold war, or in connection with the Korean campaign—emergencies which would make it imperative for the President-elect to come forward and participate in the decisions, and accept a joint responsibility. A situation like that which existed at the time of the Berlin blockade and air lift or at the time of the outbreak of the Korean war itself would be of this kind.

But there is no such emergency at the present time. The rule itself is so important that public opinion should protect Gen. Eisenhower against pressures to treat what is only awkward and inconvenient as if it were critical and imperative.

The rule is especially important for Gen. Eisnehower in the situation which he faces. He is going to have to make new decisions about the Korean war, about the fundamental strategy of the Atlantic alliance, about the relations between the dollar and the non-dollar areas of the free world. He should not allow himself to be hurried in deciding these grave and complicated matters.

Rather he should remember his mascot and how an elephant crosses his bridges. He should reach his decisions with great deliberation, determined to be thorough, fully informed, sure of his own mind and of the men who must administer the decisions.

Ups and Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"IT'S probably," said the Elevator Man, "no coincidence that two news items appeared in yesterday's paper. One said some outfit was hoping to pipe television programs to Vancouver homes by plugging them in on a wire. The other told how a farmer in Ontario upped his cows' milk production by 15 gallons a day by putting a television set in his barn. It seems the cows like best the programs that show Arthur Godfrey and Eddie Cantor. 'That,' says the farmer, 'seems to do them most good.' Well, I've always figured most radio and television comics were an awful let-down anyway, and that's probably an advantage when your big moment is at milking time. Lower main!

Tobin

"It seems to me," said the Elevator Man, "we're training ourselves and even our animals to be useless unless we're amused and entertained. You want more work out of your factory hands? Good. Set up loudspeakers, play them music while they're doing their jobs, and production goes up. A Vancouver paper even has music piped into its editorial room, presumably on the notion that by fighting to keep his attention off the noise a writer can concentrate more on his work. But it's getting to the point now where the working conditions are more important than the work. Appropriate music, harmonious colors, attractive architecture, efficient furniture, purified air, controlled temperature and humidity—what do all these describe, some millionaire's home? Nope. Just the boiler works or the junk warehouse or the rag-pickers' loft of today. For you can't give your best unless you're happy and contented—the personnel manuals say. In fact, it's a wonder how we ever got to where we are, able to afford all these luxuries, by working in the dark, dirty, noisy, colorless, damp, cold places we've always enjoyed. But we did. Going up!

"The environment," said the Elevator Man, "they're making for us, is all right in its way. But it's getting in my way too. It calls for the comment Auntie made when her niece brought the new fiance for a visit. 'Hmmm!' says the old gal, 'I'd rather have him for lunch than for life.'"

$250,000 FRAUD 'SIMPLE' SCHEME

Toronto Paper Says Stock Manipulation Basis of Bank of Nova Scotia Swindle

TORONTO, Nov. 13 (CP)—Simplicity was the keynote of "the $250,000 swindle of the Bank of Nova Scotia," the Globe and Mail says today.

In a newspage story, the newspaper gives this account:

"Three men, sponsors of a stock company, recently launched a new mining issue and succeeded in manipulating it upward in a small boom. While the stock was fluctuating in the high pennies—its top was 60 cents—the trio approached the Bank of Nova Scotia which handled their account.

"The promoters produced forged stock figures showing the value of the new issue to be 90 cents to $1. (Its current value is 25 cents a share.)

"Apparently the bank officials saw no reason to doubt the statement. And so using the fake evaluation as collateral, they obtained a cash loan of $250,000, the money being in the form of certified cheques.

"The promoters left town a couple of days ago. Their office help did not know Wednesday where they are, or when they would return to Toronto—if ever."

No names were mentioned in the story.

C. S. Frost, general manager of bank, had no comment on the report.

Attorney-General Porter said Wednesday police will step into the investigation "only if it should be deemed in the interest of justice that they do so."

City Children May Get Trip To Coronation

A dream journey is in the cards for some lucky Victoria school child—or children perhaps.

He, she or they—the number is not yet known—will be among 160 Canadian school children to attend the coronation of Queen Elizabeth as part of a delegation of 8,000 children of the Commonwealth Youth Movement.

They will be selected by school, service clubs and communities according to Major Fred Ney, founder of the youth movement and the Overseas Education League.

Because of limited accommodation, only a few will represent B.C., said Major Ney, who headed the group in 1937 for the coronation of King George VI.

He left Victoria for Ottawa today to confer with the Governor-General before going to London, Nov. 21, to complete plans for arrival of the first groups.

Major Ney said there is a great movement in England to make this coronation a Commonwealth affair rather than just the crowning of an English queen.

Vivienne Chadwick Quit York's Stage To Direct Players

Vivienne Chadwick, popular Victoria actress who appeared in the first two productions staged by the York Theatre Company, has turned her hand to directing for the fourth company presentation.

She is directing the light-hearted comedy "Clutterbuck," now in rehearsal, which will be staged toward the end of next week, following a nine-day run of "The Hasty Heart," which opened Monday.

Monica Dudley, a lead in "Curtain Up," and Dwey Harless, star of "Thunder Rock," will take principal roles. Other featured players will be Kathleen Dalton and Jack Ammon.

"Clutterbuck" deals with reactions of married people when they come across loves out of their past.

Big Carpet Order In Preparation For Coronation

LONDON, Nov. 13 (BUP).—The British Ministry of Works has ordered more than 2,000 square yards of blue and gold carpets for the coronation of Queen Elizabeth in Westminster Abbey next June.

James Templeton and Co. of Glasgow will make the rugs on a special 33-foot loom. The company made the rugs for the coronations of the Queen's father and grandfather.

Meanwhile, in Kent, a factory began production of another coronation item—432,000 automatic pencils, which will be distributed to school children next May. The pencils are blue plastic, with a gold crown, and the inscription "Queen Elizabeth — Coronation 1953."

South Korea Denounces U.N. Effort for Truce

Republic Springs Surprise in U.N. Ask Arms for 2,000,000 Own Men

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 13 (AP)—South Korea Wednesday bitterly denounced U.N. efforts for a military truce with the Reds and proposed that the U.N. arm and train 2,000,000 non-Communist Koreans to fight on with their allies.

The South Korean delegation insisted that all Korea—the republic in the south and the Red-ruled north—must be united by force if necessary.

"We are eager to expand our forces," the South Koreans declared. . . . tremendous expansion and improvement of our R.O.K. (Republic of Korea) armed forces have already occurred. But the goals can be set much higher . . . substitution of ever-increasing numbers of Korean troops for those U.N. soldiers now in the front lines can be achieved at a lower total cost than the conduct of the war now demands. And in the greatest cost of all, the cost of human suffering and lives, we do not shrink from accepting the inevitable burden."

The bitter statements, made in a 46-page booklet distributed to the U.N.'s 60 member nations, came as a surprise to diplomats who have been concentrating on the deadlocked prisoner-of-war issue.

All western speakers here have assumed — and said in their speeches—that everyone wanted a truce.

The new South Korean booklet called the truce negotiations "disheartening and degrading" and said the long months of "fruitless negotiation can well give rise to a re-evaluation of the effects of such a truce."

Korea is not actually a U.N. member, having been barred by Soviet vetoes, but the republic is sponsored by the U.N.

The South Korean statement said a truce now, without U.N. military control of both north and south, would have these effects:

1. Leave millions of Koreans north of the 38th Parallel at the mercy of Communism.

2. Give legal status to the illegal division of Korea into north and south.

3. Make probable the Communist conquest of South Korea in "a mere matter of time."

4. Deny the U.N.'s announced goal of Korean unification.

LOS ANGELES' GRANDMA THUG GETS $2,000

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13 (AP)—Los Angeles' own "Grandma Dillinger" invaded one of the city's busiest downtown corners Wednesday to stage her second bank hold-up within a month.

The little old lady dressed in blue walked into the Union Bank and Trust Co., flashed a gun and shoved a note into the cage of teller June North, 23.

"Act natural," the note read. "Give me all your money and give me three minutes to get away."

Miss North handed over $2,000 cash and the woman, estimated near 60 in age, vanished in the crowd of customers.

Church Council Delegates Urged To Get Religion Into Schools

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 13 (CP)—Delegates to the Canadian Council of Churches were told today they must take religious education into schools.

Canon R. K. Naylor, Montreal, restated a warning he made here in September at the general synod of the Church of England in Canada, that if churches don't get religious teaching into schools, psychiatrists will teach a doctrine which will not be Christian.

A report which Canon Naylor presented to the general synod on religious instruction in schools across Canada and the amount permitted by regulations, was included in the report of the Christian education department of the Council of Churches.

He felt the Council of Churches was the best body to provide religious education for schools. Although people maintain that religious instruction must be neutral, he said, it is not enough to read the scriptures. There is a fundamental core of Christian teaching that can be taken into schools, he believed, without offending any denomination.

The religious teaching should be done by regular instructors, not by clergy, Canon Naylor thought. But it cannot be neglected, or "fact-finding social scientists will take the place of Christianity."

Tories Select Candidates for Federal Voting

VANCOUVER, Nov. 13 (CP)—Progressive Conservative candidates for the next federal election were nominated Wednesday in the Liberal-held Vancouver South and Coast Capilano ridings.

Nominated in Vancouver South was Lorraine Johnston, 32-year-old barrister, active in women's community associations here. She is the daughter of the late Adam Smith Johnston.

The Progressive Conservative standard bearer in Coast Capilano will be Arthur H. (Slim) McArthur, 32-year-old electrical inspector, who was a candidate in the June 12 British Columbia election.

The Vancouver South seat is held by Arthur Laing and Coast Capilano by James Sinclair.

George Drew, federal Progressive Conservative leader, spoke at both conventions. He said the P.C. party was the only party capable of forming an alternative government to the Liberals.

PRYKE-CLARK TO DEFEND HONOR BESIDES BUTTONS

Joe Pryke and Jack Clark of Gorge Vale will be battling for more than the city golf buttons Sunday at Uplands Golf Club.

The Gorge pair have held the buttons on four different occasions, including the present, but never yet have they managed to defend them successfully.

With their honor at stake as well as the buttons, they'll put both on the line against Bob Fleming and John Merriman in Sunday's feature, starting at 12.30.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

REVIEWING THE WEEK-END or whatever happened to the Winnipeg Blue Bombers? . . . Ken Foss, Calgary radio announcer here with the Stampeders hockey club, says one reason is that Indian Jack Jacobs has a phobia about playing in his own back yard . . . the close confines of the end zones at Winnipeg worry the Bombers' great star who will likely, but also unfairly, bear the brunt of the blame. . . .

Fearless Phil Lee (who picked Winnipeg to beat Edmonton and added that the Bombers would win the Grey Cup as well) tells his own story today . . . read it and weep along with him.

Walker

Victoria Crimson Tide 16, Vancouver North Shore 13—the vaunted speed of the Tide three-quarter line paid off against the bullish tactics of the heavy North Shore scrum . . . it was a tremendous finish to a dogged, hard-fought game and a tribute to the "fight" the team selectors thought was missing from the Tide line-up.

"The best forward in B.C."—that's what coach Derek Hyde-Lay had to say about Jim Mill even before Jim started the play that led to the game-winning try . . . other sights to remember . . . Dave McKenzie's 50-yard run . . . Garry Pynn's brilliant kicking . . . the sportsmanship that was evident and the fine work of referee Bill Gornall.

★ ★ ★

CALGARY STAMPEDERS 5, VICTORIA COUGARS 4—The Cats are still lacking somewhere along the line, sputtering along on a couple of cylinders like a Model T on a wintry morn . . . mistakes cost you hockey games and the Cougars are making more than the opposition . . . the Stamps? . . . potentially powerful, but so far lacking the finesse of coach Doug Bentley's Quakers, our bet for league honors.

Oh, Lester, Dear Lester,
We plead to you now,
To do something for Eddie,
The Cougars, and vow—

That before many days
Pass by in review,
You'll remember the fans
Who soon may be few.

The fans they are loyal,
As loyal as can be;
They ask not a winner,
Just point to the fee.

That twice led the loop
In support and in cash,
So, please can't you see
That they're not being rash?

In asking, dear Lester,
That you read this ditty,
Some even say: why
Not dip in the kitty?

Of course there are those
Who feel as you might,
That the team as it stands
Will outlive its plight.

But as for the moment,
Results tell the story,
The Cougars ain't winnin'
New fans or much glory.

★ ★ ★

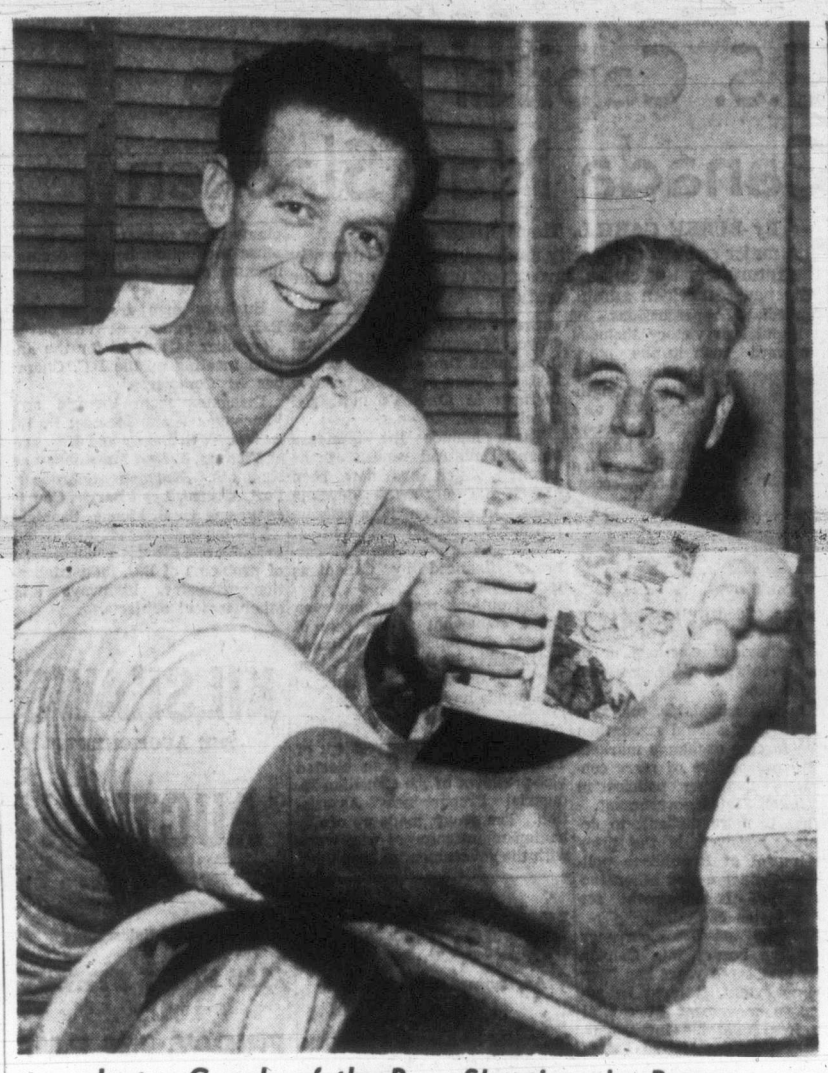
VAMPIRES 16, ROYAL ROADS 6—Two thousand shivering and rain-drenched fans can't be wrong . . . the grid sport has got the appeal to again take its rightful place on the sports scene, the explosive nature of the game providing the thrills and the color so necessary. . . .

★ ★ ★

W.I.L. to elect a full-time president—Aha! The boys begin to see the light, now all they need is the man to make their decision right. . . . And if they can get someone more able than Bob Abel, they'll do it, because there's the undeniable feeling that Abel is not the man for the job. . . .

★ ★ ★

Manager Pat Horgan on the performance of the Kins senior A men's basketball team. . . "This is the best yet . . . there's more enthusiasm . . . no cliques . . . and they're at least B.C. champions without any trouble." . . . Wonder what Alberni's Fred Bishop will have to say about this? or Vancouver Eilers?



Just a Couple of the Boys Shooting the Breeze

Don't bet on it, but it's dollars to doughnuts that John (Victoria United) Pickburn, left, is getting an earful of the "good old" days in Victoria sport from Ed (when I played baseball) Hall. The pair are confined to St. Joseph's Hospital at present, John having undergone an operation on his football knee and Ed, once a diamond star locally, an appendectomy.

Quakers Again in Western Ice Lead

Royals Tie Stampeders; Rockets Win

The Western Hockey League has a night off tonight, giving the member teams ample time to mull over four items of interest that occurred Wednesday night:

1. Saskatoon Quakers regained first place by roundly trouncing Edmonton Flyers, 6-2.

2. George Senick scored the 100th goal of his western professional hockey career.

3. Seattle Bombers suffered their fourth straight defeat, a 4-3 loss at the hands of Tacoma Rockets.

4. Rudy Filion scored the seventh hat trick of the W.H.L. season in a losing cause for Seattle.

5. Calgary Sampeders stayed within one point of third-place New Westminster Royals by battling to a 2-2 tie with the Royals.

McCULLOUGH SETS PACE

Captain Chuck McCullough paced Quakers with two goals and an assist. Senick, Alex Kaleta, Herb Jeffrey and Neil Strain scored the other Saskatoon goals. Jack Evans and Jack McLeod each had two assists as Quakers amassed 17 scoring points.

Earl Johnson and Gerry Ehman were the Edmonton scorers, with Larry Zeidel and Hugh Coflin drawing assists. Coflin was Flyers' standout both defensively and offensively.

The goal also gave Senick the Western League scoring leadership. He is one point in front of Vancouver's Ian Mackintosh.

Filion, veteran Seattle centre, tallied all three of Bombers' goals for a hat-trick, including the first score of the game after 23 seconds of play.

Tacoman Len Halderson tied it up at 13.10 of the first and Rockets moved ahead on Doug Adam's score at 15.11. Adam also accounted for another of the visitors' tallies and Gordy Kerr slapped in the other.

GOALIE PULLED

In the final minute, Seattle pulled goalie Bill Brennan out to send in another offensive skater but Bombers were unable to break through.

Westminster had to come from behind a two-goal deficit to tie the Stampeders, for Calgary's first deadlocked game of the season.

League action resumes Friday as Calgary continues its coastal tour at Vancouver and Tacoma invades Victoria.

CHARLES SOUGHT FOR MATCH IN VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER, Nov. 13 (CP)—Boxing promotor Jack Berry announced Wednesday he will attempt to sign former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles through the man who manages Baby Face Jones.

Berry wants to sign Charles for a match in either Edmonton or Vancouver against the winner of tonight's fight here between Canadian heavyweight champion Earl Walls and George Parmentier of Eureka, Calif.

SURPRISE: RANGERS WIN

Hergesheimer Sinks Hawks

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (BUP)—Wally Hergesheimer, the New York Rangers' pint-sized winger, was bidding for the National Hockey League scoring leadership today after a four-goal splurge against the skidding Chicago Black Hawks.

The five-foot eight-inch marksman whipped in single goals in the first and second periods, then added two more in the third to lead the Rangers to a 5-2 victory over the Hawks Wednesday night at Madison Square Garden.

Hergesheimer's four tallies gave him 10 goals for the season and the league lead in that department. He also moved into a tie with Gordie Howe of Detroit and Max Bentley of Toronto for second place in the league scoring derby. Each has 15 points, two less than pace-setting Maurice Richard of Montreal.

A crowd of 5,130 watched Hergesheimer whip the Hawks single-handedly and also thrilled to a third period fight between Allen Stanley of the Rangers and Fred Glover of Chicago.

The two teams will renew their warfare tonight at Chicago, Toronto plays at Montreal and Boston is at Detroit.

Senick Takes W.H.L. Scoring Leadership

Saskatoon's George Senick wrested the Western Hockey League scoring lead from Vancouver's former regent, Ian Mackintosh, Wednesday night, as he picked up one goal and one assist in Quakers' 6-2 trouncing over Edmonton.

Senick now has 11 goals and 13 assists for a total of 24 points while Mackintosh has 13 goals and 10 assists for 23.

Alex Kaleta, also of Saskatoon, picked up a goal and set up one marker to move into a tie for second place, while Gordie Kerr of Tacoma had a big night, picking up one goal and two assists to move into third place as Tacoma edged Seattle 4-3.

Mount View Upsets Vics To Tighten Soccer Race

The whole slam-banging Inter-High School Senior Soccer League race was resolved down to three last games Wednesday when Mount View ripped up the dope sheets and defeated Victoria High 3-1 at Mount View.

The loss prevented Vic High from clinching the league championship and gave Mount View an inside chance of taking the league title for the second straight year.

The three games that will decide the winner have Vic High playing Mount Douglas and Mount View taking on Esquimalt and Mount Douglas.

If Vic High defeats the winless Mount Douglas squad in their final game of the year, they will have 12 points. Mount View would then have to win both remaining league games to sweep the crown.

GAME IN HAND

Mount View, who moved into second place by their victory, hold a game in hand over Vic High.

Mount View's fair-haired boy was centre forward Gary Crowe who has carried most of the scoring load for the suburban school all season.

The slick booter rapped in all three goals to squelch any chance Vic High had of clinching an early championship.

Sharing the hero's dias with Crowe was Gene Pednault whose steady goal-keeping balked Vic High when they held the edge in offense early in the game.

Vic High controlled the ball for a major portion of the first half but Mount View converted a break into a 1-0 lead.

Midway through the half, Mount View were awarded a corner kick at the Vic High end. Gordon Deacon lofted a perfect cross and Crowe bustled in to head the ball past Vic High goalie Don Donahue.

Vic High came back with a rush in the second half and made it a tie ball game when Jack Willoughby shook off his check and beat Pednault with a well-timed blast.

Fired up by the goal, Mount View pressed strongly and were rewarded when Crowe turned Alan Orr's pass into what proved to be the winning goal.

Vic High's last strong thrust almost tied the game up following Crowe's goal, but a ticketed shot hit the post when Pednault was out of position.

Shortly after, Crowe put the game in deep freeze with his third goal, a quick shot from a pile-up in front of the Vic High goal.

In the only other game of Wednesday's schedule, Mount Douglas and Esquimalt battled to a no-score draw. Both clubs took turns taking the edge but neither could come up with a goal. Mount Douglas had several excellent scoring chances in the first half but could not finish them off, while Esquimalt took over the bad luck in the second half.

Outstanding man on the field was Mount Douglas' George Kelson, who turned in a sterling job of heady soccer at right wing.

SUSPENDED FOR SEASON

Providence Demands Egan Receive Hearing

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Nov. 12 (AP). — President Luis Pieri, of the Providence American Hockey League club said he would "take such steps as I deem necessary to protect the interests of Pat Egan and the Providence Hockey Club."

Egan's suspension for the remainder of the 1952-53 season and playoffs was announced earlier in St. Louis by the league president, Emory Jones. Egan was accused of assaulting two officials during a game in Cleveland, November 1.

"If the act Egan is alleged to have committed warrants a year's suspension, then that player is entitled to a hearing before an impartial board where his story as well as the officials' could be told," Pieri said.

"Instead, the president of the American Hockey League elects to impose a penalty that is virtually a life suspension for Egan."

Egan said: "I'm dumfounded. If my offence warrants such a stiff penalty, I should have been given a hearing."

Terry Reardon, Providence coach, described Egan's suspension as "practically a life banishment."

"Egan is 34 and he may not be able to play hockey another season," Reardon said.

Frick Puts Rivera on Indefinite Probation

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (UP)—Placed on indefinite probation by commissioner Ford Frick, Jim Rivera of the White Sox was warned today that any further misbehavior would automatically end his professional baseball career.

Mindful of an obligation to the public "to maintain the highest possible standards of morality among all men who are connected with the game," Frick placed Rivera on probation as a result of the 31-year-old outfielder's arrest in Chicago last Sept. 29.

At the time, Rivera was accused of rape by Mrs. Janet Gater but a Chicago grand jury refused to indict him on Oct. 14, returning "no bill."

Prior to his entrance to the big leagues last spring, Rivera served a prison term for attempted rape while he was in the army.

The swarthy left-handed hitting Rivera was, according to Frick, "guilty of a certain type of moral delinquency." In making his ruling, the commissioner said he could not go over the heads of the grand jury but he placed full responsibility for Rivera's future behavior on the White Sox ball club.

Frick also prohibited the White Sox from making any deal or trade involving Rivera for a full year.

The commissioner made it plainly understood that any further indiscretion by Rivera would terminate his career in pro ball.

WEDNESDAY (A DAY LATE) QUARTERBACK — By PHIL LEE

You Can't Deny Those Esks

For sale: Cheap, one "expert." Apply sports department, Victoria Daily Times.

Never mind, misery loves company and I've got plenty of that this hazy day.

Only last week after Winnipeg Blue Bombers easily defeated Edmonton Eskimos 28-12 in the first of their best of three play-off encounters for the championship of western Canada, I quoted outrageous 10-1 odds that the blue and gold of Winnipeg would win in two straight. Even the Bombers second loss didn't phase me too much. Just one of those things, I told my pals. They were just off their feed. Tuesday I listened, unbelieving, while the big Winnipeg machine capitulated completely to one of the fightingest teams in the annals of Canadian football, 22-11.

When I first started this column Times Sports Editor Bill Walker wrote a blurb preface saying I was a Blue Bomber fan. I am. But, more than that, I like to think I'm a true football enthusiast. I just happen to like the game. That is why I say that Eskimos winning is one of the finest things that could have happened to western football imaginable. Calgary won it in 1948 and 1949; Winnipeg in 1950; Regina, 1951, and now Edmonton, the newest entry in the conference, wears the crown. Prior to this changeover Bombers sat on the western throne for more than a decade and before that Regina Roughriders ruled the roost for years.

Most of the year I've been rooting for the Bombers to win the western championship because from all that I have read, listened to or heard, Bombers were the best bet to win the Grey Cup on November 29 at Toronto. However, after listening to Edmonton overcome almost insurmountable obstacles during these hectic playoffs I've changed my mind.

To go east and win the Grey Cup you've got to be a fighting squad. And by fight Frank Filchock and his valiant Eskimos have proved beyond a doubt that they are the best team in the west to take over this task. May the fortunes of war be with them. No one could deserve them more.

Congratulations to Vampires and cadets of Royal Roads for the clean, hard football displayed in their first encounter Tuesday. The brand of ball is getting better and better. The sportsmanship was always good. . . . Congratulations also to those 2,000 Victorians who stayed to watch in spite of the driving rains. . . . Who says Canadian football isn't on the Island to stay? . . . And a particular well done to the Vampire cheer leaders who showed the cadets a thing or three about cheering.

Hope it's true Annis Stukis is going to captain the British Empire Games for Vancouver. If someone doesn't step in soon the east is going to intercept Vancouver's ball and carry it elsewhere . . . Apropos: Royal Roads journeyed to the mainland city for a joust with the Merelomas . . . They thought they were going on behalf of the Games' fund drive . . . instead it proved one more fiasco . . . less than 100 witnessed the game and local officials had to handle the yardsticks . . . what a frost.

For the fun I'd like to comment on the Grey Cup game about three weeks from now. But until the East declares a champion this column is at a standstill. So until then good footballing and thanks.

'DARNED IF WE WON'T DO IT'

Grey Cup Next, Says Filchock

By HARRY MARDON
British United Press Staff Correspondent

EDMONTON, Alta., Nov. 13 (BUP)—Flingin' Frankie Filchock and his western grid champion Eskimos were the toast of Edmonton today, but already the team was looking ahead to the Grey Cup classic in Toronto.

"It's going to be a tough game on Nov. 29. But we have promised to bring the cup back west this year, and darned if we won't do it," Filchock said.

"The Big Four is a mighty tough league and we will have to be going all out to take them in their own territory, so for us the fight is just starting."

Filchock, who made his debut here as a Canadian football coach, said his team would depart from normal practice and remain at home until two days before the Dominion finals and then fly to Toronto.

"We have pulled it off through one of the worst Western Conference grinds in history," he said. "And to keep the boys in the terrific shape they're in now there will be steady practices for the next two weeks."

However, he told his club to take it easy until Friday night when the first drill would be held. It promised to be a gruelling one. Filchock's workouts are short, but packed full of action and the imaginative Edmonton coach bears down heavily on possible weaknesses in tactics or performance.

The Eskimos claimed the hard-won title of the comeback kings of the conference. They were walloped 31-12 in the opening of the semi-finals against Calgary Stampeders, but bulled back in the next game to enter the finals by a four-point edge. Disaster seemed to have hit the club when it dropped the first game of the finals against Winnipeg Blue Bombers 28-12, but they surged back at Winnipeg last week-end with an 18-12 score. And it is now in the record books—that tremendous 22-11 victory over the heavily favored Blue Bombers last Tuesday.

Looking back on the game, Filchock was wreathed in smiles.

"It was championship line play and pass defense that won us that game," he said. "We put the pressure on the Bombers where it would hurt most—their great quarterback, Indian Jack Jacobs.

"We knew that if we could stop his long passes and hold Winnipeg to two touchdowns we could score three. And that's just what we did, although they didn't even get that second major. We had Jacobs really muddled. We never had the same men marking him twice and he just didn't know who would be after him and who was watching his receivers."

Former Edmonton coach Annis Stukus told Filchock after the victory, "it's not so much the win but the way you did it. You gave them the ball, took it away from them and then kicked them in the teeth."

The lanky coach said his ears were still tingling from the reception his club received Wednesday at the airport when more than 9,000 fans turned out to greet them on their return from Winnipeg.

Team May Be Too Strong Asserts Eagles Manager

By RAY SIDAWAY

Most coaches and managers are figuring out ways they can win games.

But Chick McDonald, manager of the Eagles soccer club in the fifth division of the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football Association, is trying to figure out a way to weaken his team so the other clubs in the league can win a few too.

"When one club wins all their games, it really discourages the players on the other clubs," he said.

"We were fortunate enough to have the pick of the best players in the league," he stated. "But we don't play for the glory of winning in the minor soccer world, we play to try to build better soccer players for the future."

He feels that his goalie, Larry DeCosta, son of Louis DeCosta, one of the all-time great goalies, will develop into what his father was and perhaps become even greater.

"There is no limit to what young Larry can become if he sticks with the game and plays his heart out like he does now," McDonald stated.

McDonald asserts, however, that the team would not be in top spot without the tremendous coaching of Frank Crealy who who plays for Heaney's of the Victoria and District Football Association.

"Crealy has done a terrific amount of work for the boys and his decisions always seem to pay off," McDonald said.

There are five holdovers from last year that steady the club when the going gets a little rough. The quintette were not quite ready for fourth division play, but are certainly a great influence on the team this year and will be able to make the higher league next year according to McDonald.

The one club Eagles fear is Shepherd's Dairy.

"These boys have been improving steadily from the beginning of the season and in the second half, I think we had better look for a strong battle from them," McDonald stated.

"Nor should anyone underrate the newly formed Heaney's outfit. No, I think the second half will produce some really good soccer, and I think we will have a stiff battle on our hands to stay where we are now."

Team members include De Costa, Teddy Becroft, Dave Pollard, Barry Waters, Jamie Costain, Glen Robbins, Dave Benson, Eddy McLedoon, Ron Smith, Tommy Wyatt, Ronnie Restell, Daryl McIntyre, Joe Szpdowski, Alex Smart and Garry Robbins.

Minor Pucksters Reject Ice Proposal

Victoria Minor Hockey Association will not split the ice for its pee wee and bantam games as requested by the Memorial Arena management.

The association made the decision at a meeting Wednesday night because they felt the move would be too costly and that it would be dangerous to the youngsters.

MONTREAL, Nov. 13 (BUP)—The board of directors of the Montreal Alouettes was unable to agree today on whether to rehire coach Douglas (Peahead) Walker for another season, and announced that no decision would be made for another week.

ROBINSON WINS CROSS-COUNTRY

Harold Robinson, of Victoria High, captured the three-and-a-half-mile cross-country race against Royal Roads at Victoria High School, Wednesday.

The victory for Victoria High makes them strong contenders to capture the Royal Roads Invitational Race on November 26.

Mike Chambers came in second, with Jim Moore third.

Victoria High placed eight runners in the first 10. Thirty-two runners, 16 from each school, competed in the grind which started and finished in front of the stadium.

Robinson breezed home in the excellent time of 18 minutes and 50 seconds.

Elks Take Second

KAMLOOPS, Nov. 13 (BUP).—The Kamloops Elks moved into second place in the Okanagan Senior Amateur Hockey League Wednesday night by beating the Kelowna Packers 4-3 in the only scheduled game.

Carlaon, Smith, Hryciuk and Chakowski got singletons for Kamloops while Durban rapped in two for Kelowna.

Supervised Bowling Open to Youngsters

Supervised, organized bowling for juniors, including students of all Victoria schools, will be held in the Capital City Bowladrome each week-end, it has been announced by alley manager Phil Smith.

Games will be held each Saturday morning at 10.30 and on Friday afternoons at 3.45 for those unable to attend on Saturday. An expert bowler will be present to offer free coaching.

Mexico Captures Equestrian Trophy

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (CP)—Mexico Tuesday captured the International Perpetual Challenge Trophy, final international event at this year's national horse show. The Mexican army team of three riders completed the difficult 10-jump course with only four faults.

France was second with seven faults, the United States third with eight, Ireland fourth with 12 and Canada fifth with 20¼.

Storrie Captures Cedar Hill Title

The high brass of the Cedar Hill Golf Club fought it out for the club championship over the week-end, vice-president J. Storrie emerging victorious after scoring a 4 and 3 win over president G. Moon.

Other winners were: First flight, W. Roberts; second flight, C. R. Barlow; third flight, G. Hampton; fourth flight, H. Bell; fifth flight, Bert Keyes.

Ratepayers' Support Sought for B.E. Games

VANCOUVER, Nov. 13 (BUP).—The British Empire Games committee Wednesday asked the Vancouver city council to present a $750,000 bylaw to ratepayers in the civic elections next month to help finance a stadium at the Pacific National Exhibition grounds in Vancouver.

The committee also asked for assurances from the P.N.E. that it would continue to operate the stadium after the games in 1954. The stadium would be used for track and field events in the games.

The P.N.E. board of directors was expected to meet Friday to consider the situation.

Vancouver aldermen have also scheduled a meeting for Friday afternoon to consider the question. The special session was called after aldermen were told they would have to begin work immediately in phrasing the money bill if it was to be presented to the ratepayers in the Dec. 12 election.

Ralph Brown, fund raising chairman of the games committee, said the committee would have to go back to the U.B.C. site for the stadium if their bid for council aid was turned down.

Reorganization of Reserve Army Under Consideration by Simonds

OTTAWA, Nov. 13 (CP).—A reorganization of Canada's weak and undermanned reserve army is under consideration by Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, Chief of the General Staff, it was learned here Wednesday.

The air force and navy, too, are reported ready to take steps to build up their reserves. The R.C.A.F. is likely to post more regular force airmen to reserve fighter squadrons to bolster them. The navy is forming a special branch to look after the reserves and is preparing to work more in 1953 in building up the part-time force.

Gen. Simonds' army plan has not reached a stage where it can be placed before the cabinet yet and it is likely to be discussed with other senior army officers here early in the new year.

Summer training may be streamlined to concentrate more on officers and non-commissioned officers rather than on units which often go to camp with a minor fraction of the men they are supposed to have.

There may be other changes, too. Army circles admit that the reserve army is a feeble and inadequate force. It also is frankly admitted that a logical first step in reorganization would be to eliminate a large fraction of the "name" units.

But there logic collides with tradition and sentiment. Virtually every unit has its glories of the past and it would probably do more harm than good to undertake a wholesale destruction of them.

Gen. Simonds is reported to have some degree of elimination of units in mind but it is not likely to touch any of the ones war has made famous—the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, the Carleton and Yorks, the Loyal Edmontons and many more.

The reserve army has roughly 50,000 men but that is paper strength. Many units turn out for parade with only a small fraction of their paper strength.

On paper, too, it is a force of six divisions but that is pretty well a phantom army.

The Canadian Legion went before the cabinet Wednesday with a brief which hammered on the weakness of the reserve army and urged the appointment of an independent commission to study the situation and make recommendations.

THE CAINE MUTINY

Twenty-second installment from the book THE CAINE MUTINY, copyright, 1951, by Herman Wouk. Distributed by Doubleday Syndicate.

The convoy ran into stormy seas halfway to San Francisco, and Willie Keith began to get a clearer idea of the limitations of World War I destroyers. Day after day passed of rough seas and lowering skies; of rolling and pitching, cold winds, and cold damp eating into bones softened by tropic warmth. Willie lost track of time. He stumbled from the bridge to his coding, from coding to correcting publications, from corrections back up to the bridge, from the bridge to the table for an unappetizing bunk-a meal, from the table to the clipping shack for sleep which never went uninterrupted for more than a couple of hours.

One morning Willie stirred in his bunk, opened his eyes, and felt a strange and delicious sensation: the bunk was neither rolling nor pitching, but remaining level.

He was on the bridge when the Caine steamed under the vaulting crimson span. But his poetic thoughts were jangled by a colloquy between the captain and Gorton, standing behind him.

"Kay, when we pass Alcatraz we'll head over to Oakland. Give me a course, Burt."

"Sir, Pier 91 isn't in Oakland ——"

"I know. We're going to lie off Oakland for a while before we tie up at the pier."

"Aye aye, sir."

"Mister Keith, get that crate in my cabin—get yourself a working party and load it into the gig. You'll be boat officer."

At the expense of sundry mashed fingers, splinters under finger nails, crushed toes, and a spectacular fireworks of obscenity, the working party lodged the captain's stone-heavy crate in the boat.

The Caine lay to near the Oakland shore, and the gig went puttering toward a concrete landing at the foot of a deserted street. Queeg sat in the stern sheets, his feet on the crate, rolling the balls and squinting around the bay. When the gig reached the shore, Queeg leapt off the gunwale to the landing. "Kay. Bear a hand with that crate. I'm late as hell."

Two of the working party jumped to the dock, and the third sailor with Horrible and Meatball got one end of the crate up over the gunwale with much heaving and grunting. The men on the dock seized the crate and pulled; those in the gig pushed from below. The box hardly moved.

"Well, well, what's taking so long?"

"Sir, she won't slide," panted Horrible, his black hair falling over his eyes. "Too heavy."

"Well, stand up on the gunwale and lift her then. Haven't you any brains?" The captain looked around and saw Mackenzie standing on the dock with the bowline in his hand, staring vacantly at the struggle. "Well, what are you doing, standing there with your mind in neutral? Bear a hand."

Mackenzie at once dropped the line and jumped to help the men on the dock. This was a mistake on the part of the captain and the sailor alike. Mackenzie had been performing the necessary function of holding the gig close to the dock. With the bowline free, the gig fell away, imperceptibly at first and then faster. A crack of open water widened under the crate. There was an instant of chaotic yelling, cursing and crunching, over which rose the soprano scream of Queeg, "Watch out for that goldarn crate!"

Horrible and the crate fell into the water with a tremendous splash, soaking Queeg. Horrible floated, a blob of white on the muddy water. The crate went down like an anvil, with a bubbly groan.

The gig was halfway back to the Caine before Queeg spoke again. "Willie, who was in charge of that working party?"

"I—I guess I was, sir."

"Well, Willie, that foul-up cost me a hundred and ten dollars."

* * *

Seventy or eighty people, most of them women, were crowded on Pier 91 when the old minesweeper drew near. They fluttered handkerchiefs and uttered thin sweet cries, and in their brightly colored coats they made as decorative a welcoming display as rows of flags.

"Kay," said Captain Queeg, "I can see this approach is going to be fun—Tell the line handlers to stand by their line-throwing guns. All ahead two thirds! Right full rudder!"

The Caine churned forward against the brown tumbling tide, and swung in toward the pier. In a few seconds the ship drew parallel to the dock—but yards and yards of open water lay between. "Kay, we'll breast her in! All stop! Shoot those heaving lines over!"

Gorton, standing at the captain's elbow, said, "It's not going to reach, sir. We're drifting too fast——"

"Why are we drifting too fast? Because these goldarn line handlers are all goldarn zombies! Kay, Recover all lines! I'm going to make another approach."

The Caine backed out into the main channel. Willie Keith's heart gave a mighty throb, for he suddenly saw May Wynn at the far end of the pier, almost hidden by women in front of her. She wore a perky grey hat with a veil, a grey traveling suit, and a white fur shoulder piece. She looked as she had in Willie's waking dreams, not a touch less beautiful or desirable.

Queeg tore in toward the dock at fifteen knots, swung the ship hard right, and backed the engines, in an apparent attempt to duplicate his historic red-hot landing alongside the fuel dock in Hawaii. But luck or skill did not favor him with the same hair-raising success this time. He backed down too late. The Caine came crashing into the wharf at an angle of about twenty degrees, still going fast. A hideous splintering din arose, mingled with the shrieks of the lady spectators scurrying to the other side of the wharf.

"Back down emergency full! Emergency full!" squeaked the captain, as the destroyer, its bow imbedded in the dock, quivered like an arrow shot into a tree trunk. The Caine pulled clear in a moment, with more tearing and banging, leaving a monstrous shaving several feet thick and twenty yards long gouged out of the pier.

"Kay, we'll try once more," announced Queeg, as the old ship backed into open water, "and this time we'd better make it, for the sake of all hands, that's all I've got to say! All ahead two thirds!"

The Caine shuddered and started forward again.

"Right full rudder! All engines stop!"

Willie cautiously came up to the bulwark and saw that the Caine was slipping fairly into position alongside the dock, except that the bow was closer than the stern.

As the ship swung perpendicular to the wharf, Ensign Keith heard the cry of a very familiar voice: "Will-EE! Will-EE darling!" His mother stood near the manila line, waving a handkerchief!

At last, with the help of a passing tug, the ship's stern was pushed in toward the dock. When the Caine was finally secured, Queeg came into the pilothouse, his face white, his forehead crawling with wrinkles, his eyes glaring out at nothing. "Officer of the deck!"

Lieutenant Maryk followed him through the door. "Officer of the deck, aye aye."

"Kay," said Queeg, with his back to Maryk, rubbing the steel balls in his fingers so that they made a loud rasp. "You will pass the following word: 'Due to the lousy seamanship of the after line-handling party, the entire crew is deprived of two days' leave.'"

Maryk stared at the captain, his blunt face showing disbelief and disgust. He did not move. After a few seconds the captain whirled. "Well? What are you waiting for, Mr. Maryk? Pass the word."

All over the ship, and on the dock, where the announcement was clearly heard, faces were drawn with shock and dismay—young faces of sailors, weary faces of chiefs, pretty faces of sweethearts, and old faces, such as the face of Willie Keith's mother. Mrs. Keith did not yet have the consolation of realizing that Ensign Keith was an officer and therefore exempt from the penalty.

When the gangplank was put over, Willie was one of the first to disembark. He saw no escape from his situation; it would simply have to be faced. Mrs. Keith was standing at the foot of the gangway; and May, her expression a touching mixture of confusion, gladness, and fear, had placed herself directly at the mother's elbow. Mrs. Keith embraced Willie wildly. "Darling, darling, darling!" she exclaimed. "Oh, it's so wonderful to have you close again!"

Willie disengaged himself gently, smiling at May. "Mother," he said, taking her hand and May's hand, "I'd like you to meet—ah—Marie Minotti."

Britain Turns Corner; Faces Economic Goal

Trade Deficit Heavily Slashed in October

LONDON, Nov. 13 (Reuters)—Britain announced on Wednesday it narrowed the gap between its imports and exports to $101,640,000 in October—a sharp drop from previous monthly deficits this year.

The gap was one of the factors which prompted Richard Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, to tell the House of Commons that Britain has reached the turning point towards full economic recovery.

He said Britain's gold and dollar reserves, derived chiefly from sterling area trade with hard-currency countries, showed a surplus for October. Wednesday's figures cover world-wide trade for Britain only.

They showed the trade deficit for October was one-half that of some preceding months this year. In July, August and September, the average monthly deficit was $171,080,000. In the first quarter the average was $197,120,000 and in the second quarter $241,640,000.

UP 10 PER CENT

October exports showed a monthly average increase of 10 per cent. The Board of Trade announcement said, however, that it is usual for exports to rise in October after lower values of the holiday months.

Imports rose slightly in October over the monthly average of the third quarter. The government has concentrated on reducing imports as a means of closing the trade gap.

Butler said in a London address this afternoon there are signs "we are conquering inflation.

"In one year, we have staunched the flow of blood," he said. "We shall not, as far as I can see—at any rate for some time ahead—be in any danger of bleeding to death from the loss of our gold and our dollar reserves."

"It is a bold thing to say that this afternoon there are is true, and it is a great achievement for this country in one year," he added.

DISPLEASED with what he hears, Soviet delegate Andrei Gromyko has a dour look during one of the sessions of the current U.N. General Assembly in New York.

U.S. Ship Will Receive Trophy

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (AP)—The Duke of Sutherland arrived Tuesday with the Atlantic "blue ribbon" trophy and said the English people "feel pleased" that the United States won it from them.

"They feel it's your turn," the Duke told newspaper men.

The Duke arrived aboard the United States Lines flagship, the United States, which won the award, known as the Hales Trophy, with a record-breaking Atlantic crossing last July.

The gold and silver trophy, five feet high, will be presented at a dinner aboard the vessel tonight.

Ethiopia Lauds Canada Before U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 13 (CP)—Ethiopia told the United Nations Wednesday that Canada stands out in its objectivity toward international problems.

Foreign Minister Abte-Wold Aklilou of Ethiopia, opening his address in the assembly's general debate, said the election of Canada's External Affairs Minister, L. B. Pearson, as assembly president, was celebrated in Ehtiopia.

He added Ethiopia believes Canada is distinguished among U.N. members by its objectivity toward questions brought before the world organization, and by its devotion to peace and the principles of collective security as shown in the Canadian forces fighting in Korea against aggression.

C.P.R. Says $95,000,000 Necessary

OTTAWA, Nov. 13 (CP)—The Canadian Pacific Railway will need to spend $95,000,000 a year for the next five years in expanding and replacing its rail property, the Board of Transport Commissioners was told Wednesday.

This evidence was given by N. R. Crump, C.P.R. vice-president, as the company continued evidence in support of a proposed new basis for determining rail rates.

Mr. Crump said the $95,000,000 —year figure is gross. Later, L. B. Unwin, vice-president of finance for the company, calculated it would need a net $60,000,000 in new capital next year after taking into account its hoped-for surplus and money set aside for replacement of assets.

Burmese Battle Sees 14 Reds Die

RANGOON, Burma, Nov. 13 (Reuters)—Fourteen Communist rebels were killed in an all-day battle for the strategic Aungban Bridge, 200 miles north of here, it was reported Tuesday. Government troops also killed three Communists near Toungpoo, 180 miles northeast of here.

Food, Clothing Price Drop Led Index Down

OTTAWA, Nov. 13 (CP)—A drop in food and clothing prices cut living costs in nine regional cities during September.

The bureau of statistics Wednesday reported a decline in regional cost-of-living indexes for Vancouver, Edmonton, Saskatoon, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal, Saint John, N.B.; Halifax and St. John's, Nfld.

Prices were down for beef, fresh vegetables, lamb, veal and oranges at all centres. Lower prices also were noted generally for men's wool underwear, women's winter coats and nylon hosiery.

Most other index sub-groups were generally unchanged. Higher tram fares were noted in Montreal. Montreal, as well as Toronto, showed an increase in coal prices. Rents were not surveyed and this sub-group remained unchanged.

The various city indexes show changes in retail prices and services in each city, but they do not indicate whether it costs more or less to live in one city than another.

The city indexes on Oct. 1, based on August, 1939, prices equalling 100, with Sept. 2 figures in brackets:

Vancouver 187.3 (189); Edmonton, 177 (177.7); Saskatoon, 181.5 (182.7); Winnipeg, 177.5 (179); Toronto, 181.8 (183.3); Montreal, 189.8 (191.7); Saint John, N.B., 181.6 (183.9); Halifax, 174.0 (176.7).

The index for St. John's, Nfld., based on June, 1951, prices equalling 100, dipped to 103 from 103.6.

Ancient Kashmir Monarchy Ended

SRINAGAR, Kashmir, Nov. 13 (AP).—Kashmir's 106-year-old monarchy ended Wednesday when the constituent assembly voted to delete any mention of exiled Maharaja Sir Hari Singh from the constitution.

The election of a new head of state is scheduled for Friday. The wealthy Maharaja's 21-year-old son, Yuvaraj Karan Singh, appears to be the assembly's choice.

Sir Hari left for Bombay in 1949 after clashing with Prime Minister Sheikh Abdullah over an agrarian-reform program.

Boyd Gang Members Lose Death Appeal

TORONTO, Nov. 13 (BUP)—The Supreme Court of Ontario Wednesday dismissed the appeal of Steve Suchan and Leonard Jackson against a death sentence for murder.

Chief Justice J. W. Pickup said the court did not see how the jury could have reached any other verdict than that the pair was guilty of murdering Toronto detective Edmund Tong.

Both men, members of the notorious Boyd gang, were with Edward Alonzo Boyd when he made his break from the Don jail.

British Government Ends B.B.C.'s Monoply in Television Operations

LONDON, Nov. 13 (CP)—In face of a strong opposition, the Conservative Government has authorized separation of the powerful, publicly-owned British Broadcasting Corporation from its long-standing monopoly control of the United Kingdom's airwaves.

This break with tradition concedes limited rights of competition to private enterprise, following official sanction of the principle of sponsored broadcasting. The government's White Paper granting the authority was carried by 297 votes to 269.

At present, British listeners get their radio and television entertainment free from advertising unless they tune in on commercially-sponsored programs from the Republic of Ireland or the Continent.

The experiment, announced in conjunction with renewal of the B.B.C.'s operating charter for another 10 years, is expected to be launched some time in 1953. A government memorandum, however, emphasized that its introduction must wait until the calls on capital resources for national defense and other priority undertakings make the move feasible.

The new order does not mean commercial sponsorship will be thrown wide open. It will be confined at the start to the expanding field of television, and on frequencies higher than those used at present.

Television networks already in operation by B.B.C. will be maintained and enlarged, while the corporation's exclusive rights in the field of radio broadcasting, a monopoly it has enjoyed since 1927, will not be disturbed.

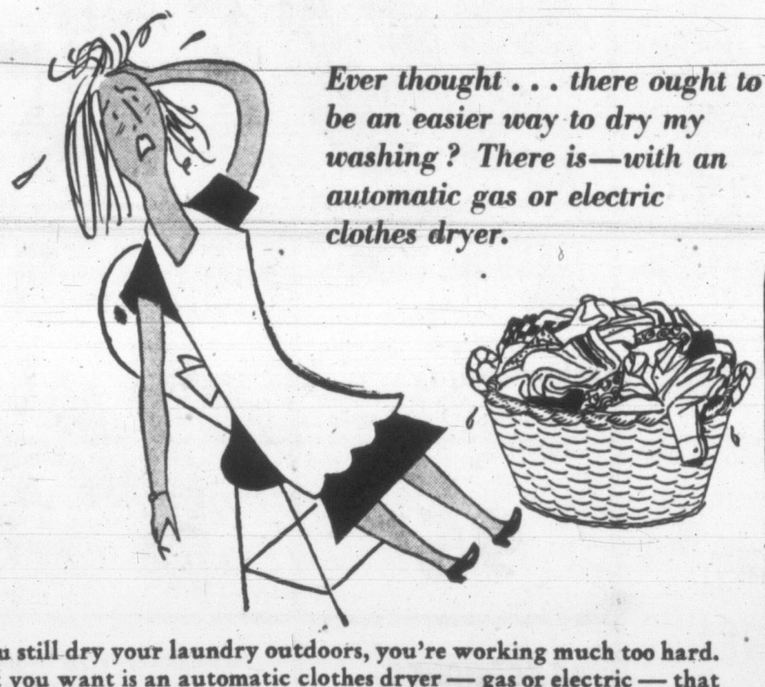
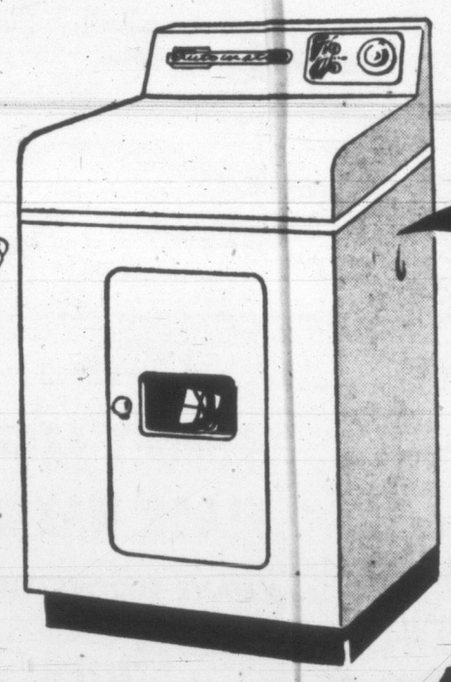
DOES back-breaking lifting, hanging up and taking down tons of heavy dripping wet cloths make you . . .

SICK AND TIRED OF WASHDAY'S TOUGHEST JOB!



Ever thought . . . there ought to be an easier way to dry my washing? There is—with an automatic gas or electric clothes dryer.



Let it Rain!
Think back—how often did it rain last winter on washday? You can laugh at the weather when you have an automatic clothes dryer.

IF you still dry your laundry outdoors, you're working much too hard. What you want is an automatic clothes dryer — gas or electric — that dries clothes indoors — that dries them fluffy-soft in a matter of minutes. No matter what type of washing machine you have, you just toss the wet clothes into the dryer — and set the dial for bone-dry or ironing-damp. Think of the steps you'll save! Think of the lifting and lugging you won't have to do! Think how much better you'll feel when you don't have to carry tons of heavy wet clothes out to the line! Think of the time you'll save!

GET AN AUTOMATIC GAS OR ELECTRIC

AND—you'll save hours of ironing-time, too. Some clothes come out of the dryer all ready to fold and put away. Other clothes will be easier and quicker to iron because they'll be fluffier, have less wrinkles.

In Brawl With Hearst Marion Davies' Spouse

BEVERLEY HILLS, Calif., Nov. 13 (AP).—The movie colony's latest sidewalk fight pitted publisher William Randolph Hearst Jr. against the husband of Marion Davies, his late father's friend.

Capt. Horace Brown, 47, seagoing mate of the former movie star and longtime friend of the late Hearst Sh., gave this version: "Bill made a filthy remark about Marion and I swung."

Hearst, 44, publisher of the New York Journal American, denied making any derogatory remarks about Miss Davies and said the scuffle started because he declined Brown's invitation to join the Davies' table at Romanoff's Cafe. The fight took place on the sidewalks in front of the cafe during the late supper hour Tuesday night.

STRONG CANADIAN FLAVOR

Prince Charles Marks 4th Birthday Friday

Prince Charles is four years old Friday and his birthday celebrations seem sure to have a strong Canadian flavor.

The stury, active young heir to the throne has been "talking" Canada ever since his parents returned from last year's royal tour. His favorite toy is a radio-controlled automobile set presented by Windsor, Ont.

Charles gets such a kick out of this, officials at Buckingham Palace said that it's unlikely any birthday gifts will oust it from favor. He has a "real boy's" love of mechanical gadgets.

The fair-haired Prince knows as much about Canada as if he'd been there in person. His knowledge comes from showings of films taken by the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, plus stories told to illustrate still photographs. One of his favorite tales is Prince Philip's account of how he and "mummy" drove a Canadian train.

When the royal couple returned from Canada a year ago, they distributed some of the Canadian presents immediately and kept a few others for last Christmas.

Among the Christmas gifts were twin cowboy and Indian outfits for Charles and his two-year-old sister, Princess Anne. A visitor to the royal nurseries in Buckingham Palace may well be pounced on with war whoops by an Indian chief, followed by a tiny, blonde squaw, rather unsteady on her feet.

Funeral Services Set For Dr. A. E. Clarke

Funeral services for Dr. Alfred Edward Clarke, 49, who died here Wednesday, will be held Friday at 3 p.m., at Hayward's.

Dr. Clarke, an agriculturist employed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, was born in Victoria and received his early education here.

He came to the city two days ago from Idaho to visit his father, George William Clarke of Metchosin, who is ill. Also surviving are his mother and a sister, Miss Violet Clarke, 313 Arnot Avenue.

Wreckers to Demolish McTavish Family Home

Another Victoria landmark, "Invertavish," former home of the McTavish family at 912 Heywood Avenue, is being torn down to make room for a modern apartment building.

The house was built 63 years ago. It had 12 rooms, all large and with high ceilings, and there were eight fireplaces.

For the last 25 years the rambling old house has served as a rooming house.

Courts of Revision Study Voters' Lists

Saturday is court of revision day in all Greater Victoria municipal halls; the day the voters' lists are searched for technical errors.

Oak Bay and Esquimalt courts will sit at 9 a.m. At Oak Bay Reeve P. A. Gibbs and Clrs. J. V. Johnson and F. A. Robinson will be present.

The officials at Esquimalt will be Reeve A. C. Wurtele and Clrs. G. R. Guillemaud and W. Dallaway.

Councillors E. P. Cummins, Mrs. Grace Shaw and L. H. Passmore will conduct the Saanich court at 10 a.m.

S.C. COULD STILL GOVERN EVEN IF BY-ELECTIONS LOST

A double Social Credit defeat in the Nov. 24 by-elections in Columbia and Similkameen would not mean the end of British Columbia's fledgling government.

Correcting a mistaken impression held by many people, constitutional experts said today the only way the government can be displaced from office is by a defeat on the floor of the Legislature.

One authority explained that Premier W. A. C. Bennett's Social Credit Party was called upon to form a government, not because he had one more seat than the C.C.F. (19-18), but because he was considered to have a better chance of governing because of anticipated support from the other free enterprise parties, the Liberals and Conservatives.

This the Socreds would continue to govern B.C. even if their strength in the House was less than the socialists. If the government survived next year's session without losing office, the test would come at next summer's general election—practically assured by Premier Bennett recently.

2 Taking Part In H.B.C. Hold-Up Get Stiff Terms

VANCOUVER, Nov. 13 (CP)—Two men who took part in an unsuccessful holdup on the fifth floor of the Hudson's Bay department store Nov. 1 were sentenced Wednesday to four and three years in prison.

Sentenced to four years was Donald Francis Swan, 20, who pleaded guilty to the charge along with William Janush, 21, who received three years.

Four men took part in the daring football-style raid on the credit office. It was foiled when store employees tackled Janush as he fled with $12,900 in a paper bag.

A third man held in connection with he robbery has pleaded innocent and the fourth man is still being sought.

Extra Police Planned To Stamp Out Mau Mau

NAIROBI, Kenya, Nov. 13 (Reuters).—Extra police posts are being built in all areas of the Kikuyu tribal reservations to stamp out the anti-white Mau Mau reign of terror, the government announced today.

The 50 existing posts will be reinforced and intensive policing of tribal areas on a permanent basis "is being speeded up to the utmost extent," a spokesman said. Extra native policemen enlisted in the last two months will man the new posts.

Police Wednesday night arrested 20 tribesmen who were forcing a young Kikuyu girl to take the Mau Mau oath, which pledges the ousting of all whites from this British colony. The police, in the Thika district north of Nairobi, said the girl had been dragged to the initiation scene against her will.

Another Mau Mau intruder fired two futile rifle shots at a white farmer and his wife near Thompson's Falls, but escaped into the night. The farmer fired at the fleeing native but missed and hit his own servant.

Meanwhile, a special court for Mau Mau cases today sentenced 31 Kikuyus caught at an initiation ceremony to prison terms ranging from one to three years. All admitted being Mau Mau members.

Two labor members of the British parliament returned to London today after an independent 10-day visit to Kenya and said that racial discrimination, government destruction of the tribal system, land hunger of the natives and the high cost of living are the main causes behind the Mau Mau.

Fenner Brockway and Leslie Hale, describing the Mau Mau as "an ugly and brutal form of extreme nationalism," rejected Colonial Secretary Oliver Lyttleton's theory that the Kenya emergency sprang from grievances other than economic and social. Brockway said a full report of their tour will be made at a public meeting next week.

LONDON, Nov. 13 (BUP).—Canned beer not only survived Britain's first atomic explosion in the Monte Bello Islands off Australia last month, but is still fit for human consumption.

Authorities say the beer cans were found when naval officers and men returned to the island site of the explosion. The ship in which the bomb was fired, the canteen and even most of the beer cases had disappeared, but the beer cans were intact.

Arabs Cancel Rich West German Contracts In Protest Against Israel Reparations

BONN, Germany, Nov. 13 (AP).—The Arab states have cancelled contracts, worth millions of dollars, with West German firms in an effort to force the Bonn government to scrap its agreement to pay reparations to Israel, a spokesman for German industrial associations reported today.

While the Arab League is still withholding formal announcement of measures it intends against Germany, contracts are being cancelled at a rate of at least six a day, the spokesman said.

"The pinch is on and it is getting worse," he added, "and it is not only in the Middle East. . . . It is not unlikely that the Arabs will carry out their threats to force a boycott all the way around to Indonesia."

Where the Germans are being forced out competitors are rushing in, especially the Russians, he said. A Japanese delegation also is reported offering low prices. Communist East German, Austrian and British commercial missions are extremely busy.

The agreement to pay Israel $775,000,000 worth of goods in partial restitution for Nazi wrongs to the Jews, signed last September, is expected to come up for parliamentary ratification near the end of the year.

Christmas Seals Help to Reduce Tuberculosis's Tremendous Toll

By PETE LOUDON

Fifteen thousand people will die today . . . and the same number tomorrow and again the next day . . . and forever, until the ravages of tuberculosis are brought under control.

Those, figures are for the world, but there is hardly a community that has not felt the dread touch of the disease. Victoria is no exception.

Last year 18 died in Greater Victoria from pulmonary tuberculosis. There are 1,275 cases here now. Public health nurses made 1,583 home visits in Victoria and Esquimalt in the last year.

Progress is being made . . . much of it because citizens assist public health authorities to wage war on the insidious germ.

The B.C. Tuberculosis Society have put a weapon in the hands of the citizenry . . . the innocent looking Christmas seal, that carries the symbol of the double-barred cross, nemesis of tuberculosis.

The annual sale of these seals provides costly equipment for T.B. clinics. The resulting early detection of the disease means avoidance of lengthy sickness and the saving of countless lives.

In 1951, the sale of Christmas seals helped provide a mobile X-ray unit for use in the interior and on Vancouver Island. A bursary for nursing was provided at U.B.C. An intensified health education program was extended to school children, and many former patients were rehabilitated. Financial assistance was given to the erection of the Simon Fraser Health unit at Maillardville.

In Victoria, the enormous task of conducting the annual sale of Christmas seals is done by the Soroptimist Club. They have conducted the campaign for six years. This year they have set their mark at $15,000.

Today there is hardly room to move in their Christmas seal committee office on Broughton Street. Twenty-three cartons of out-going mail, containing 16,700 letters of appeal, are stacked along one wall. The groundwork of the campaign began in September. It will not be completed before February.

Each letter contains two sheets of seals to the value of two dollars. Mrs. M. Alice Kimmitt stresses that this fact does not limit or dictate the amount of individual contributions. She points out that although the seal campaign is launched on a national basis in Canada and the United States, each unit has control of its own funds and spends the money on T.B. prevention in its own area.

The Christian spirit cannot be better illustrated than by the display of the double-barred cross on Christmas parcels, say the Soroptimists. They ask the public to remember that tuberculosis is a preventable disease.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

VANCOUVER: This 66-year-old descendent of Gastown is rapidly stealing Hamilton's title of "The Ambitious City."

Everything is getting bigger and better and noisier and more confusing in Vancouver.

And in case any of the citizens have failed to notice the changes which have occurred in the past 66 years, the Board of Trade has declared this Civic Progress week.

The idea is, Vancouver people are supposed to look around and see how far and how fast Vancouver has progressed.

Well, as a former long-time resident of the mainland city, who visits it only occasionally now, I can say there have, indeed, been some changes made.

Some of them have even been for the better.

It was unfortunate that I had to arrive in Vancouver on all-day-closing Wednesday.

On Wednesday, Vancouver is closed up tighter than Fort Knox.

However, it has been explained to me that this, too, is a sign of civic progress.

Only the progress is for West Vancouver, which draws Vancouver shoppers in droves all day Wednesday.

It is typical of Vancouver that, even during civic progress week, various citizens lambaste the city for its alleged failings.

Vancouver people are great hands for criticizing themselves, although they deserve this as their own exclusive, personal right.

A Vancouver reporter yesterday bemoaned the fact that the people of his city look sad.

"Head down, they slide by if it looks as if you might be ready to open a friendly conversation," he said. "They have worried, blank looks."

The reporter thinks that, at least during civic progress week, the citizens should show pride and a smile.

If I know what is good for me, I will keep out of this discussion.

But I feel that Vancouver is so busy progressing it hasn't time to smile.

In the field of progress, I observe that Vancouver rain is still wetter, rainier, and more determined than any rain I've experienced anywhere.

There is a ruthlessness and inevitability about Vancouver rain which tops all other rains.

Vancouver has every reason to show pride in its rain.

I am not so sure about the smile, though.

Also, pedestrians have progressed.

They are faster on their feet, more agile, and keener of eye.

Yes, pedestrians in Vancouver have progressed, and are still progressing.

Fast.

I think I will go back to Victoria now, and cheer Vancouver's progress from a distance.

Purse Snatcher Caught by Police

Accused Naval Rating Admits Charge Of Attacking Woman on City Street

Two young ratings of the Royal Canadian Navy admitted in city police court today to crimes: one, of assault with intent to rob, and the other, to a purse-snatching theft.

One of them didn't have a chance. He ran into the arms of a constable while carrying the purse he had grabbed from a woman pedestrian.

Robert N. Longtin, 18, formerly of Ontario, pleaded guilty to a charge that he assaulted Miss Lucia Lee, 838 Caledonia, a Chinese nurse, with intent to rob her. An earlier charge of common assault of Miss Lee was withdrawn at the request of Prosecutor Alan Bigelow.

Robert Dunlop, 21, who was born in Brandon, Man., pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing a purse from an Indian woman, Eva David, early this morning.

Longtin was remanded to November 19 for sentence. Dunlop was remanded to Friday and Magistrate H. C. Hall asked the prosecutor to investigate the matter on the point of "whether or not a more serious charge should be laid."

'SERIOUS CHARGE'

Magistrate Hall advised Longtin that he was facing a "very, very serious charge" and told him that he could either have the matter disposed of in the city court or elect for hearing in higher courts. Longtin elected to have the matter disposed of by Magistrate Hall.

Detective William Andrews told the court that Miss Lee was walking along Douglas, between Johnson and Pandora, early Monday morning when a sailor (Longtin) fell in behind her.

Miss Lee told him the sailor said: "I've got a gun in my pocket, so don't make a sound."

She said the man then told her to "give me everything you've got."

The detective said Miss Lee offered the knitting bag and purse she was carrying after the second demand but that the sailor did not take it. She then screamed three times for help. The sailor had put a hand across her mouth to stifle the cries.

Miss Lee told the officer the man then walked away hurriedly, east on Pandora.

Miss Lee immediately contacted city police. Constable Eric Rossiter toured the district and saw accused. His information helped detectives Andrews and Dean Blackstock make the arrest.

CAUGHT ON RUN

Constable John Burdyny of the city police said he was checking premises in the 1500 block of Douglas at 12.35 this morning when he saw Dunlop running toward him with a woman's purse in his hands.

The constable stopped the man, was not satisfied with his explanation as to how he had got possession of the purse and took him to the police station.

Later it was learned he had snatched the bag from Mrs. David.

Mrs. David told the court Dunlop had made improper advances and on being refused had snatched her purse and run away. The purse contained $13.03 in cash and personal effects.

St. Joseph's Hunting Three New Internes

Action is now being taken to replace three internes who recently resigned their posts at St. Joseph's Hospital, it was learned today.

Dissatisfaction with procedures of some licensed doctors and lack of lectures were reported as reasons for the resignations.

The three internes concerned are: Dr. Luena Hatcher, Dr. E. M. Finlay and Dr. Kenneth Leighton.

Dr. Russell Robertson, chief of the hospital's doctors' committee, confirmed the resignations and said: "It was purely a question between the doctors and the internes."

"As far as we are concerned, according to our medical ethics we cannot really say anything," said Dr. Hatcher.

"It was a personal matter and we certainly did not want to cast any reflection on the hospital or staff."

The three internes had had several years' licensed practice in Great Britain and were to have written Canadian examinations here about May or June, the reports stated.

Times' Old Home Gets Complete Renovation

The Times Building, at Fort and Broad, is to undergo complete renovation to make it into a modern, first-class office building.

Contractors are set to begin work on the building this week. Work will be completed and the building ready for occupancy by April 1, 1953.

Announcement of renovation plans was made today on behalf of the owners, Max Bell, of Calgary, and F. Ronald Graham, of Vancouver, by Col. B. Russell Ker, of Ker & Stephenson, Ltd., agent.

Tenants have already signed for most space in the renovated building, Col. Ker said.

Victoria Book & Stationery Co., Ltd., will occupy the basement, with its own entrance on Broad Street. The United States Immigration Service will take the west half of the main floor, and Niagara Finance Co., Ltd., will occupy the other side.

Metropolitan Life Insurance Company will occupy the entire second floor, and three legal firms will have offices on the third.

The fourth and fifth floors have not yet been rented. Each has an area of 2,700 square feet and is suitable for one big office or several smaller ones.

Construction of The Times Building was undertaken in 1909 and completed in 1910. It was the home of this newspaper from that time until May, 1951, when the paper moved to the new Victoria Press Building on Douglas Street.

Cost of renovating the city landmark will be in the neighborhood of $90,000. Wade and Stockdill, architects, have planned the changes to be made.

Plans call for a new main entrance, rewiring, new flooring and new elevator.

Parfitt Construction Co., Ltd., has been awarded the general contract for renovation.

G. H. Birnie is to install new plumbing, and Mawson Gage Ltd., has been awarded the wiring contract. T. Eaton Company is to provide new floor covering.

The building has been unoccupied for the past year.

Carriers Guests of Eagles

Times carriers, Mike Kachanoski, choosing a prize on the barrel, Ray DeMacedo, centre, and Bob Provan, right, are ringed by carrier boys from both city newspapers, who were guest Wednesday of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Victoria Aerie. The event was part of the observance of a "Press Night." The youngsters "pressed" a mountain of hot dogs and gallons of soft drinks into service. The program of games was highlighted by boxing bouts where each young battler was confined from the waist down by a barrel. Each boy who participated in the fun-filled contests was a "winner." The prizewinners had to choose their award from a selection of wrapped packages and unwrapped flashlights. The weighty decision of choosing is reflected in Mike's expression. (Times Photo.)

Eagles Generous Hosts To City Newspaper Staffs

A high time was tendered representatives of the Victoria Press Wednesday night by the Victoria aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, with the observation of a "Press Night" in their aerie.

Earlier in the evening 70 carrier boys of both papers enjoyed a gigantic "feed and frolic."

Outstanding event of the evening was the presentation of a stage show by a talented troupe, each one of whom was recruited from the membership of the Eagles. Unrestrained laughter nearly drowned out the comedy offerings of Rollie Walsh, who can almost "out-Yogi" the popular Yogi Yorgesson. Ed Rinaldi sang in his native Italian while every toe tapped to the lively lilt of the selections. A mouth organ medley played by John Cook preceded vocal selections by Johnnie Bell, who hushed the audience with "Holy City."

Another mouth organ artist, Stan Bowlie, proved the old adage that an audience never gets too much of a good thing. Gene McLeod exhibited a fine baritone when he rendered "Bluebird of Happiness."

Pianist Fred Pitt displayed rare talent when he played Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue."

The accompanist was assisted in the breaks by another excellent keyboard entertainer, Ernie Hackett. Wes Morriss on the saxophone and Darrell Brooks with the traps rounded out the talented team.

Master of ceremonies was Les Entwhistle.

HEAVY PLASTIC RAINCOATS IN

LONDON, Nov. 13 (CP)—A new, non-transparent heavy-weight plastic sheeting is making rainproof fashion news.

Since the end of the Second World War, British women have have been groaning over prices of smartly-styled coats in rainproofed satins and grosgrains. Many women found a £10 average too high a budget for rain wear.

Now, the new plastic provides coats with grosgrain or satin finish at upwards of £2, in the latest coat styles. Many are reversible and a good buy for the girl who likes dancing is a reversible full-length evening coat with satin finish. In such combinations as black and pink it will sell for around £4.

Japanese War Bride Faces Difficult Role

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

The role of a war bride is hard at its best. But, when the war bride comes from a land where life is very different from what it is here, her role is made far too difficult for most women to stand. That is what this war bride is likely to find:

Hurlock

(Q.) "My sister has an only son who is in the army stationed in Japan. He has written and asked his mother to accept a Japanese girl as her daughter-in-law. He intends to marry her on his next birthday, when he will be 21. My sister would be heartbroken if he goes through with this marriage and would like to stop him. She disapproves of a mixed marriage. What can she do?"

(A.) Your sister can do nothing. If he were still a minor, she might be able to get his superior officer to prevail upon him to wait until he had an opportunity to come home on furlough and get a better perspective on the whole matter.

As it is, her hands are tied. The best thing for her to do is accept the young woman as her daughter-in-law, as her son has asked her to do. The young woman will need a friend and adviser badly when your nephew brings her here to live. If her mother-in-law accepts her and tries in every way to help her, it will make many people who might otherwise be cold to her accept her as a friend.

Your sister is right in feeling that there are many things against a marriage such as her son is planning. Most war brides, coming from European countries where the pattern of life is much closer to ours than is that of Japan, have a hard adjustment to make when they come here to live. Many of them are so unhappy they return to their own countries.

For the sake of her son's happiness, your sister should do all within her power to see that his marriage to this Japanese girl is happy. Furthermore, if she wants to retain her son's love, she must accept his wife as she would accept an American girl. Otherwise she will pay the price by losing him.

Elizabeth Hurlock is one of the nation's great psychologists, and she will gladly help you with personal problems.

It was also announced that Overseas Wives Club has offered to provide good, clean, used clothing for young children in care of the F. and C.S.

Reports were heard from Mrs. W. Halkett, wool convener, and Miss Parson, who is in charge of sorting and packing knitting and clothing for the F. and C.S.

A special evening meeting of the auxiliary has been named for Wednesday, November 26, to make final plans for a tour of a group of homes decorated in the Christmas theme.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

A Happy Mental Outlook Is Important to Health

Many people wonder why we never heard of allergies in the past but know so many people who have them today. Actually the word allergy was unheard of until 1906. No matter what we call them, this bunch of miseries harasses thousands of good people. Hay fever, asthma and many skin blemishes belong to this group.

When you are allergic to something you are sensitive to it. You can find out what these things are by having skin tests made. If your allergies are few and definite, and it is possible for you to avoid the articles which affect you so unhappily, then the cure is easier.

Many women are allergic to certain substances in cosmetics. There are several good lines of cosmetics which are made especially for the woman who has this kind of an allergy. The use of one of these is an easy answer if you find that you are sensitive to some cosmetic aid you are using. If your sensitivities are myriad you will have a more difficult problem.

Much newer and more interesting is the scientific data which proves the connection between the emotions and allergies. We have known this for a long time in a vague sort of way. Even Hippocrates suggested that an asthmatic attack often followed some severe emotional crisis and hives has been definitely correlated with times of strain. Today the allergist and the psychiatrist are working together with great success.

Migraine headaches are attributed to physical causes, one of them being the abnormal retention of salt in the tissues which leads to a greater than usual amount of water in the small blood vessels inside the cranium. It has also been discovered, however, that these headaches often seem to be connected with overwork and times of strain. Psychosomatic treatment has helped a great many of these sufferers.

These are medical questions which I am not equipped to go into. I mention them to you today only in the hope of impressing upon you the importance of a happy mental outlook, of changing any situation you can which is frustrating, or of recognizing it and adjusting to it if you cannot change it. If your difficulty is too severe or deep rooted to cope with it yourself you would be wise to obtain expert help in doing so. The impact of your emotional self on your health is indeed dramatic.

Ruth Parsons
Baby Counsellor
Heinz Home Institute

Dear Miss Parsons:
I would like to thank Heinz for the guidance I have received in raising my baby.
Our son Robert is just 4½ months old but my doctor says his development is more like a six months child. He was started on Heinz Cereals and now has graduated to Heinz Strained Foods. We have you to thank for a great deal of his rapid progress.
Like many other new mothers I hadn't the vaguest idea about raising and feeding a new infant but your informative literature has made meal time a happy occasion in our house. Happy healthy babies are a blessing to the home and a constant joy to their parents

When Canadian women are downright pleased with a product they have a gracious custom of saying "thank you" to the maker. That is why Heinz receives so many hundreds of letters from mothers across the country—letters like the one shown here, full of sincere, unsolicited praise for Heinz Baby Foods.

And it's no wonder babies thrive on Heinz Baby Foods. Such an abundance of thought and care and skill goes into their preparation . . . and such a heap of good, good food.

Feed your baby digestible, natural-flavour Heinz Pre-Cooked Cereals, now available in both 4-oz. and 8-oz. packages. Later Heinz Strained Baby Foods and Junior Foods will help the pounds pile up.

SPECIAL OFFER:—New Baby Tumbler, an attractive plastic spillproof cup specially designed for babies. Regular 49c value for only 25c and six labels from any Heinz Baby Food or 3 Heinz Cereal labels. Available in Pink or Blue. Write H. J. Heinz Company of Canada Ltd., Dept. S.P., Leamington, Ontario. State colour desired.

PRAISES ROYAL'S ACOUSTICS

Met's Peerce Chats With Wrapt Audience

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

Victorians liked Jan Peerce and demonstrated the fact with enthusiasm, Wednesday night at the Royal Theatre.

In return, the famous Metropolitan Opera's tenor told his near-capacity audience what he thought of them, the theatre and concert giving in general.

This unscheduled part of the program was sandwiched between a generous handful of encores and sent listeners home feeling the singer was a personal friend.

"This is my fourth visit in nine years and I feel that you and I have grown up together. Frankly, you were not such a musical audience then as you are now!

"But tonight," he continued: "A whole group of Schubert and you demand an encore and we give you more Schubert and you love it!"

According to Peerce, concert giving should be a shared emotional experience, a mutual joy, not a conventional, stuffed shirt affair.

"By the way," he added, "and don't tell Vancouver, but do you know you have in this theatre, the finest concert hall, acoustically speaking, I have sung in during the present tour? It is simply magnificent!"

The program itself was quite conventional, both as to content and arrangement, including Italian, German and English language groups and a sprinkling of opera.

Peerce is an example of a man whose voice, without being phenomenal in size and range, is so beautiful in quality, so skilfully produced and handled with such a high degree of artistry, that it leaves one satisfied and delighted.

It is hard to decide which one prefers to hear him do — such arias as those he sang from "Tosca" and "Carmen," or the exquisite, pure poetry of, for example, Schubert's "To Music." He fashions a delicate phrase, breathes a tender pianissimo, and in fact, paints freely a veritable vocal rainbow of color.

Of particular interest was the suite of four brief songs, "Poema en forma de Canciones," by the 20th century Spanish composer, Joaquin Turina. These were gems and were treated as such by the artist, who sang them with devotion and deep understanding.

Warner Bass proved himself to be an unusually fine accompanist, sharing honors especially for the masterly presentation of the lieder, through full and sympathetic union with the singer. Mr. Bass also provided a solo group.

C (To put in time)

(BB) PENNY PRINCESS (Odeon)! From the moment the film opened with a placarded thanks from the J. Arthur Rank studios thanking the Lampidorrans for speaking English and thus avoiding Mr. Rank the cost of providing subtitles, "Penny Princess" was obviously a fantasy. But it wasn't until the final fadeout that one realized by how little the plot failed to become a spanking good show.

The plot, for what it was worth, is about Lindy Smith (Yolande Donlan) who mysteriously inherits the mythical kingdom of Lampidorra. But upon arrival from the U.S. where her role in commerce is that of a departmental store employee exploiting a potato peeler, Lindy finds out that her 2,000 subjects and the realm itself are broke.

While she awaits the $100,000 that is bound up in her estate she helps the gentle Lampidorrans by outlawing their national industry—smuggling—and turns to exporting their wonderful, home-made "schneese."

Now "schneese" is a cheese with a kick. It is fairly gobbled up by France, Italy and the Swiss. Unfortunately these countries tax it to the hilt because it is ruining their own local cheese industries. Therefore, Queen Lindy and her "consort," British cheese salesman Tony Craig (Dirk Bogarde) send the valiant Lampidorrans out to smuggle "schneese."

As far as it goes it's dandy. But, for fantasy, it doesn't go far enough. If you're going to delve into imagination you may as well mine it all the way. In spite of a fairyland atmosphere and a tremendously catchy song, "It's a Fine, Fine Night," some capable malarkey by Miss Donlan, Bogarde and supporting members, "Penny Princess," as we've said before just manages to miss the comedy boat which is a pity because we're sure we would all like "schneese."

BRIDGE LESSON

—by Oswald Jacoby

When today's hand was played, declarer managed to lose two spades and two diamonds. He sadly scored up 100 points for the opponent and forgot about the matter.

Would you do the same thing? Would you think that you had been unlucky to lose this contract, or would you realize that correct play surely brings it home?

South cannot lose his contract if he plays the hand correctly. South wins the opening trump lead, cashes both top clubs, and ruffs a club. Dummy is then entered with a second round of trumps, and dummy's last club is led.

When East fails to follow suit, it is apparent that West has the last club. South therefore discards a diamond, and now nothing can beat him.

West is forced to win the last club and must then return a spade or a diamond. If West returns a spade, declarer will lose only one spade and one diamond. If West returns a diamond instead of a spade, declarer will lose two spades but no diamonds. In either case, South easily makes his contract.

What if East, rather than West, has the fourth club? In that case, to be sure, South must ruff instead of discarding a diamond, but nothing has been lost. South can lead a spade from his hand and will make his contract if West has the queen of spades or if East has the king of diamonds.

The point is that it costs nothing to find out about the clubs. If West has the fourth club, the contract can be assured by a "loser on loser" discard. And if East has the fourth club, South can fall back on his plays in spades and diamonds.

IN TUNE WITH THE TIMES

By RAY SIDAWAY

Eddie Cantor will spin records of Hollywood personalities on his N.B.C. radio show, "Show Business—Old and New" tonight over KOMO. The program was originally scheduled for the Nov. 6 broadcast but was cancelled owing to the elections.

Records Cantor will play include "I'll See You In My Dreams," Doris Day; "Slap That Bass," Fred Astaire; "It's All So New To Me," Joan Crawford, and many others.

Millions of school kids are taking a new look at teacher following Sunday's broadcast of "Our Miss Brooks" and are discovering that she is an individual with looks and personality, in addition to intelligence and professional ability.

"Our Miss Brooks" launched a contest to find the nation's most beautiful schoolteacher, with grade and high school pupils doing the nominating. Eve Arden, glamorous star of the program, stepped out of her title role character to talk about the contest which will continue until Dec. 5.

A tobacco auctioneer and a housewife cracked the $2,500 jackpot on last week's Groucho Marx's "You Bet Your Life" comedy-quiz show by knowing that David and Bathsheba's son eventually became King Solomon.

On the same show, Groucho interviewed the fabulous California character known as "Foghorn" Murphy. Murphy explained that during the early days of baseball he'd ride around on a horse and give passes to girls. "You gave 'em a pass," Groucho queried, "or you made one?"

"What ever happened to Amos?" fans of "Amos and Andy" often wonder.

"He's a victim of our times," explains Freeman Gosden, who plays the part. Amos is a sweet, gentle, lovable character, the exact opposite of bombastic, bumbling Andy. He is a character designed for heart appeal rather than laughs.

"Nowadays we play for comedy, not for the sentiment," says Gosden, "so Amos has been largely replaced by Kingfish."

Negro to Appeal Conviction Of 'Leering' Assault Charge

YANCEVILLE, N.C., Nov. 13 (AP)—A Negro tenant farmer, convicted of assaulting a white girl by "leering" at her, escaped a jail term today but he will appeal his conviction to the State Supreme Court.

Mack Ingram, 45, a father of nine, was given a six-month suspended sentence for "assault on a female." But his attorneys, backed by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said they will ask the Supreme Court to reverse the verdict that a white male Superior Court jury returned Tuesday.

Judge Frank Armstrong placed Ingram on five years' probation on good behavior. Under North Carolina law, Ingram could have received a maximum of two years on the roads.

The prosecuting witness was Mrs. Willie Jean Boswell Webster, 19. She testified that Ingram "eyed" her from about 25 yards and later chased her across a freshly-plowed cornfield on her father's farm in June, 1951.

Simpson-Sears Plans 15 Stores In Canada at Cost of $50,000,000

TORONTO, Nov. 13 (CP)—Simpsons-Sears Ltd. expects to build some 15 new stores in various Canadian centres during the next five years, at a cost of about $50,000,000, E. G. Burton, president, said Wednesday.

Mr. Burton outlined at a press conference some of the plans of the recently-formed company, which brings Sears-Roebuck of the United States, and Simpson's Ltd. of Canada into a 50-50 partnership in the Canadian retail and mail-order field. The partnership does not include the five existing department stores of Simpson's Ltd. in Toronto, Montreal, Halifax, Regina and London, Ont.

The first store will be the one already planned for Burnaby, near Vancouver, which, with a mail-order addition, will cost more than $6,000,000 and will be opened in 1954. The retail section will cost between $3,500,000 and $4,000,000.

No decision has been made yet on locations for other stores but all cities of 40,000 and up are being studied.

Stores will be of three types, A, B and C, with the A a full department store, B a somewhat modified version, and C devoted to hard-line goods, such as sports goods, tools, housewares, automobile accessories, appliances and luggage.

In the United States the pattern is to locate A stores at cities of 20,000 population and over; B in cities from 50,000 to 100,000, and sometimes down to 30,000; and C in smaller centres.

Mr. Burton announced the directorate of the new company, six from Simpson's, and six from Sears-Roebuck. They are:

From Simpson's: E. G. Burton, C. L. Burton, G. M. Graham, C. L. Gundy, W. P. Scott, N. C. Urquhart. From Sears: Crowdus Baker, E. Gudeman, T. V. Houser, George F. Trotter, A. M. Wood, R. E. Wood.

Victoria is one of the cities in which Simpsons-Sears is expected to build one of its larger-type department stores. The company is reported to have options on land on Douglas Street near where the new Island Highway will join the Sidney Highway.

So far, however, there is no indication when Simpsons-Sears will start building here, but it will probably be the second venture by the new company in the province.

Bennett Angry At No Apology From Coldwell

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Wednesday national C.C.F. leader M. J Coldwell will be guilty of using "smear tactics" if he doesn't explain his charges about racial prejudices in the B.C. government or issue a public apology. (See story, page 3.)

The Premier was replying to Mr. Coldwell's week-end refusal to apologize for his reported statement in Vancouver that this province's government is steeped "in racial prejudices."

Said Premier Bennett today: "I am terribly disappointed that my request for an explanation of the charges, or an apology to the people has resulted in Mr. Coldwell evading the issue completely.

"He has used the old hackneyed political tactic of evasion and endeavored to attack Premier Manning and the Social Credit movements elsewhere.

"I had expected a better attitude from Mr. Coldwell. I've always differed with his socialistic policies, but I had always thought he was a fair-minded man."

Rita, Prince In Agreement On Trust Fund

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (AP)—Rita Hayworth's lawyer, Bartley Crum, said Wednesday a "very substantial" trust fund had been agreed upon for the actress' two-year-old daughter Yasmin, but declined to confirm reports that it amounted to $1,000,000.

Crum arrived in New York by plane Wednesday after reaching the trust-fund agreement in Paris with Charles Torem, lawyer for Prince Aly Khan, estranged husband of the actress. He said Miss Hayworth, scheduled to return to the United States Dec. 8, may start a divorce action in Paris. She already has a suit pending in Nevada.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Diet Important Point In Kidney Stone Case

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

"Is any special diet recommended when there is suspicion of kidney stones?" asks Mrs. C.

This question is difficult to answer since the word, "suspicion," does not make it clear as to whether kidney stones are really present or whether there are symptoms which could come from stones but might also come from something else.

At any rate, the question of diet and kidney stones is an important one, and if a stone or gravel has been passed it should be studied in a laboratory to find out about its chemical composition.

If the kidney stone is made up of crystals of oxalic or phosphoric acid, for example, the urine is usually kept acid by diet. On the other hand, if the stone is made up of the less common uric acid, then the urine should be kept alkaline by diet.

For these reasons, one cannot possibly give any single diet which is suitable for all people who suffer from kidney stones. The doctor can advise about the diet only after he knows the chemistry of the stone.

In addition to diet the presence of kidney stones usually requires the search for some chronic infection elsewhere in the body and treatment for this if infection is found. Sometimes vitamins added to the diet are also helpful, but so far the search for food or medicine which will dissolve stones once they have been formed has been unsuccessful.

Kidney stones are most common between the ages of 25 and 40, though they may appear at almost any time. Numerous possible causes have been suggested, including chronic infection, deficiencies of certain vitamins, and slowing of the circulation in the kidney.

The most likely explanation, however, is that there is some kind of disturbance in the excretion of certain salts which are ordinarily carried in liquid form in the urine. When stones are being formed these salts are precipitated as crystals out of the urine in solid form and gradually become larger and larger.

FIND STONE'S LOCATION

It is important also to find out where the stone or stones lie. This can be discovered by proper equipment and the use of X-ray. Often it is possible to aid in the passage of the stone by oiling or other measures.

When the pain is severe, the patient must be relieved and this involves the use of pain-killing drugs, sometimes in large quantities. Indeed, the pain of kidney stones is too often extremely agonizing — some who have experienced it say it is the worst to which human beings can be subjected.

Half of Youth Held Unfit For Military

KITCHENER, Ont., Nov. 13 (CP).—Lt.-Col. H. V. Matthews, of Toronto, said Tuesday night that more than 50 per cent of youths trying to enlist in Canada are unfit for military service.

He told a Remembrance Day gathering that of those accepted, many break down under training and have to be discharged.

"We reject more people than we accept."

He said he deplored lack of cleanliness among troops, apathy towards sport, absenteeism and illiteracy, and lack of ability of the men to look after themselves.

Colonel Matthews is commanding officer of a rifle battalion at Camp Ipperwash.

Of illiteracy, he said that of one group of 600 men, 47 had Grade IV education or less. What surprised him was that these near-illiterates came from areas where good schooling was available.

B.C. Trade Index Aid to Salesmen

The 1952 edition of the British Columbia Trade Index has been released by the department of trade and industry.

The 225-page informative booklet provides an up-to-date, alphabetical listing of more than 3,000 products manufactured by about 5,000 B.C. firms.

A companion publication of 45 pages is also available. It lists advertising agencies, radio stations, wholesalers and distributors, manufacturers' agents, merchandise and produce bookers, and importers and exporters.

Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Chetwynd said the publications should prove a ready and useful reference for potential buyers at home and abroad.

Bamangwato Tribesmen Loyal To Deposed Chieftain Seretse

SEROWE, Bechuanaland, Nov. 13 (Reuters)—A British commissioner Wednesday bowed to African loyalty to a deposed chieftain and called off a tribal meeting held to name a replacement.

Bamangwato tribesmen, who for three days had argued in favor of Seretse Khama, the chief who was banished by Britain after he married a white girl, greeted the announcement with cheers.

Most tribal spokesmen seemed to want Seretse or no one. Tuesday Owabone, a prominent tribesman, said he would give his life if Seretse could return.

District Commissioner Gordon Batho said the meeting had been called because nearly 80 influential tribesmen had said it was time to elect a new chief. The British government wasn't trying to force the issue, he added.

Seretse married Ruth Williams, a red-headed London typist, in 1948. They visited the tribal reserve in 1949, but although she was accepted by Seretse's followers, the British administration feared that friction with a rival clique might lead to trouble.

Fire Hall's Closure No Rate Influence

Closure of Yates Street fire hall, ordered May 2, did not deprive Victoria of reduced fire insurance rates this year, City Manager Cecil Wyatt has been advised.

He said he wrote K. M. Sabiston, manager of B.C. Underwriters' Association, asking the direct question. Sabiston replied:

"In reply to your letter of Nov. 7, we would advise, whereas the closing of Yates Street fire hall as of I think the end of May, would increase the deficiency points upon which our rating is based, it was not responsible for the fact that fire insurance rates were not reduced April 1 when rates on habitational risks in some of the other municipalities of B.C. were reduced."

Doukhobor Arsonists Suspected in Fire

CRESTOVA, B.C., Nov. 13 (CP)—The Krestova community hall was destroyed by fire during the week-end and R.C.M.P. said Tuesday night they suspect the blaze was the work of Sons of Freedom Doukhobor arsonists. No arrests have been made to date.

CHIEF MATE BLAMED FOR KATHLEEN'S LOSS

Board Suspends License Of Chief Officer Savage

By MONTE ROBERTS, Times Marine Reporter

VANCOUVER, Nov. 13—The loss of Ss. Princess Kathleen was due to "forgetfulness" on the part of Chief Officer Charles William Savage, and as a result his master's certificate has been suspended for 12 months.

This was the decision handed down this morning by Mr. Justice Sidney Smith, inquiry commissioner into the sinking of the C.P.R. cruise ship on Point Lena September 7.

The commissioner emphasized that there was "no question of drinking," otherwise the certificate would have been canceled.

Capt. Graham O. Hughes, master of the ship, was commended for "seamanlike measures looking to the safety of his passengers and crew, and the possibility of saving the ship."

Capt. Hughes and all other officers were exonerated from blame. Sam Mitchell, quartermaster, was criticized in the findigs for "tardy co-operation . . . in not reminding the chief officer sooner than he did that the ship continued her swing to starboard."

The formal court of inquiry, which heard evidence Wednesday, brought down the following decision:

"We find the stranding and loss of Princess Kathleen due to forgetfulness on the part of Chief Officer Savage, who, in narrow waters, starboarded his wheel and neglected to afterwards steady the vessel on any course prior to the stranding.

"Our task was made simple by the straightforward manner in which he gave his testimony.

"We feel obliged with regret to suspend his master's certificate for 12 months, from September 7 last, the date of the accident, with the recommendation that at the end of six months he be granted for the remaining period of six months a certificate as mate of a steamship in the home trade.

NO DRINKING

"We think it is right to state clearly that there was no question of drinking, otherwise we should have felt obliged to consider the cancellation of the certificate.

"The court deplores the tardy co-operation by the experienced quartermaster in not reminding the chief officer sooner than he did that the ship continued her swing to starboard, in obedience to the last helm order.

"Capt. Hughes and the officers are exonerated from blame, and their certificates will be returned forthwith. We especially commend Capt. Hughes for his seamanlike measures looking to the safety of his passengers and crew, and the possibility of saving the ship.

"Although the question of radar was not in issue here, we note with satisfaction the action of the Department of Transport in providing schools for instructing of ships' officers in its use, as recommended by this court at its last sitting."

(The recommendation was made at the inquiry into the collision between Princess Kathleen and Prince Rupert.)

Mr. Justice Smith was assisted by Capt. J. F. Patrick and Capt. B. L. Johnson, who acted as assessors.

City Council Rejects Fireworks Ban

City council this afternoon turned down a recommendation of the police commission that sale of Halloween fireworks be prohibited except by special permit.

Aldermen felt the recommendation was "too drastic" and referred the question to the parks committee for study and report.

Ald. Margaret Christie urged acceptance, saying Halloween observance this year was "the worst I've ever seen."

Lie's Aide Jumps to Death

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (AP)—Abraham H. Feller, 47, an adviser to Trygve Lie, United Nations secretary-general, plunged to his death today from his 12th-floor apartment window despite his wife's attempts to hold him.

At U.N. headquarters, Secretary-General Trygve Lie of the United Nations said today his legal counsel, Abraham Feller, killed himself because of the strain of defending U.N. employees "against indiscriminate smears and exaggerated charges" before a U.S. grand jury and a Senate committee.

Vancouver Low-Rent Housing Okayed

VANCOUVER, Nov. 13 (CP)—A $2,000,000 subsidized low-rental housing project in the Little Mountain area today was approved by a special city council committee. Approval capped more than four years of negotiations.

The federal and provincial governments have agreed to share in the cost of erecting the 224 housing units.

NANAIMO 'BATTLE OF AXES'

Wife, Son Charged With Attacking Man

NANAIMO, B.C., Nov. 13 (CP). A domestic battle involving a well-known Nanaimo family continued to be aired today in the assize court here.

Nanaimo City Engineer Arthur Leynard and his mother, Mrs. Alice Leynard, have been charged by Paul Leynard, father and estranged husband with causing him actual bodily harm. He charged his wife and son had attacked him at the home of Mrs. Jessie Green of Royston, where he had boarded for more than a year.

He told a weird story of an ax-wielding battle at the Green home last May 3.

"I saw my wife with a short-handled axe in her hand at the door," Leynard told the court.

"Arthur was right behind her, but I couldn't make out if he carried anything. I clutched the axe, knowing what she is like, and was hit on the head by Arthur," Leynard testified.

He described how he pushed past his son and secured a fire axe from a nearby garage. When he returned he said he found his wife and son trying to break down the bathroom door behind which Mrs. Green had found sanctuary.

"I threatened with my axe unless they stopped, and the cowards, they stopped dead."

Mrs. Green testified that as she hid in the bathroom she heard Mrs. Leynard tell her son: "You leave her to me, she's mine."

Leynard testified most of his 36 years of married life had been spent away from home.

The trial is continuing.

1st Fall Storm Troublesome

Firemen Kept Busy; Citizens Report Service Wire Problems

Victoria's first wind of the fall today sent storm warnings flying in all Vancouver Island coastal waters, stirred up neat piles of leaves, and blew the city's most pleasant Indian summer for years right off the calendar.

At press time Gonzales Observatory reported winds of 40 miles per hour, reaching 50 in gusts. They will slacken off late this evening to westerly at 30 miles per hour, and will be westerly at 20 on Friday.

Only trouble reported was a power pole blown down on Regina Avenue, and numerous complaints to the B.C. Electric of "service wire" trouble at individual homes.

The wind was powerful enough to break a branch from a tree growing at the Twilight Homes development on Cedar Hill Road at Cedar Hill Crossroad, which narrowly missed one of the dwellings.

City firemen, however, reported the inevitable chimney fires that accompany every high wind. They made four calls, and Oak Bay firemen had one alarm.

"We've had none and we're keeping our fingers crossed," said Saanich and Esquimalt firemen.

High winds aggravated a fire started Saturday in sawdust and wood chips dumped in a vacant lot on Douglas Street south of Tolmie Avenue. Three city firemen worked all morning on the stubborn blaze that smouldered deep in the sawdust and wood waste.

Heavy weather was reported in the Straits of Juan de Fuca, and by 11.30 a.m. spray was blowing across Dallas Road at the breakwater into Ross Bay Cemetery.

Ss. Motor Princess turned back from her regular freight run to Vancouver shortly after 9 a.m. because of heavy seas and all tugboats "holed up" in sheltered waters.

Both the government wireless station, Gordon Head, and Pacific Salvage Co. report the air lanes "all quiet."

The wind was general throughout this area, according to the weather office. Vancouver reported wind speeds of 22-28; Cape Flattery 32-40 and Comox 35-45.

By a freak of weather and geography, Port Angeles reported "dead calm."

Winds will decrease as a low pressure centre crosses the coast, according to the weatherman. The forecast indicates westerly winds Friday, with cloudy skies and occasional showers. Temperatures tonight and Tuesday will range between 40 and 50 degrees.

Vancouver Stocks Closing Prices

Trading was slack and stock market price changes were small in the final session at Vancouver today.

Western oils were dull and featureless. Mines showed some activity. Pacific Nickel was a feature in active trade around 93c; Quatsino was off 2 to 60c.

A strong feature among the industrials was Canadian Western Lumber which closed a shade over $9, bucking the generally lower trend of the market.

Labor Violence at Hamilton

Bitter rivalry between two textile unions flared into violence for a second time at Hamilton, Ont., when a group of C.I.O. workers crossed an A.F.L. picket line. Women took part in the scuffles, as picture above indicates. Verne Mustard, top A.F.L. organizer in Welland, was held by police on charge of obstruction.

Hospital Bed Shortage Denied

Vincent Paone, whose death Nov. 6 was subject of a coroner's inquest, was hospitalized at St. Joseph's Hospital six hours after application for a bed was made.

Sister Rose Mary, superior and medical superintendent of the hospital issued this statement today.

It follows a charge reported made by Dr. John Dalton before the coroner's inquest November 10 that he tried to get a bed in the hospital every day "but there were no beds between the eighth and fifteenth of October."

He was reported as saying lack of beds was delaying admission of seriously-ill people into hospitals.

Sister Superior at St. Joseph's outlined the "practiced procedure" at the hospital as follows:

"The physician makes a request at the admitting office for a specific patient, giving name, sex, adult or child, and probable diagnosis. Whether or not a bed is immediately available, a record of this request is made. This listing is carried forward from day to day.

"The first application for a bed for the late Mr. Paone was made in the mid-afternoon of October 15. This patient was actually hospitalized six hours later."

George Masters, administrator at Royal Jubilee Hospital also issued a statement today saying "Victoria is not short of hospital beds."

Eisenhower's Korean Trip May Be Delayed

May Be Held Up Until Late November, Early December Owing to Important Commitments

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 13 (UP)—President-elect Eisenhower's trip to Korea may be delayed until late November or early December, authoritative sources said today.

Eisenhower, on the basis of election campaign promises, wants to get to Korea as fast as possible to promote the greater use of South Korean troops in the front lines and explore the possibilities of working out the earliest possible peace "with honor".

The Republican election victor was faced, however, with a lot of demanding commitments in Washington and New York. His press secretary, James C. Hagerty, would not hazard a guess as to the starting date of the Korean trip.

Business Tax Urged on City By Ald. Smith

Institution of a business tax in Victoria could mean a reduction of some four mills in the city tax rate, Ald. J. Donald Smith told city council meeting this afternoon.

He urged the whole matter be studied by finance committee with reports and recommndations to council.

City Managr Cecil Wyatt advocated study of the levy of the business tax in a report on the city's finances presented last February.

The report was laid on the table for further study.

Ald. Smith suggested now is the time to take up the report. He referred to the large revenue the City of Edmonton received from a business tax and felt Victoria's financial position would be greatly improved by such a tax.

ROK'S SAY REDS USING POISON GAS

Doubtful U.S. Officials Probing Charge; Communists Drive Foe From Pinpoint Hill

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD

SEOUL, Friday, Nov. 14 (AP)—Chinese Communists seized Pinpoint Hill early today in a furious battle and South Korean soldier survivors charged the Reds fired suffocating gas into their lines.

U.S. military authorities treated the Korean charge with caution. But the Allies rushed up a chemical warfare team to make a quick investigation.

One of the first Korean soldiers examined was found to be definitely ill. The examining doctor said he could be suffering from fumes of an old artillery shell.

Korean survivors who came down off the ridge told their superior officers that after some Communist shells exploded within their lines they had difficulty breathing.

SMOKE SHELLS?

U.S. officers with the Koreans said soldiers in the heat of battle often mistake smoke or phosphorous shells for gas shells.

Still, they were taking no chances. The Communists repeatedly have charged that the Allies were firing gas shells in Korea. All these charges have been denied.

The Geneva convention outlaws gas. Both sides in the Korean war maintain they live up to the convention.

(Korean battle action reports sometimes have proved unreliable, due mainly to an Oriental concern over loss of face. Recently, a Korean division refused to acknowledge loss of a central front hill position for face-saving reasons.)

The South Koreans had been driven from Pinpoint Hill, highest point on Sniper Ridge, after an onslaught in which the Reds steadily built up to their assault.

1,000 MEN

Elements of two Chinese battalions — possibly 1,000 men — overran the central-front height for the 14th time in a month of battle, field dispatches said. They struck behind heavy artillery fire.

South Korean defenders once more were pushed south to lower heights on shell-torn Sniper Ridge. Heavy fighting still was in progress.

Associated Press Correspondent John Randolph said the Reds hit Allied positions on Pinpoint Hill at 11.10 p.m. Five hours earlier Allied artillery routed about 750 Reds advancing on Sniper from the east.

Pinpoint was the Allies' northernmost stronghold on Sniper. Republic of Korea infantrymen had spent the day mopping up Red remnants after recapturing the hill early Wednesday.

Six Burn to Death in Nanaimo

$1 Million Fire Threatens Homes At Keremeos

10 Families Moving Out Before Flames

KEREMEOS, B.C., Nov. 14 (CP)—A $1,000,000 fire destroyed a warehouse and an adjoining cold storage plant, containing $525,000 worth of apples here today. The fire is raging out of control.

The warehouse and storage plant is owned by the Co-Operative Fruit Growers' Association.

The homes of 10 families are in the path of the flames as a strong southwest wind whipped the fire.

Keremeos, with a population of 1,792, is 170 miles east of Vancouver.

The fire started about 10 a.m., and shortly before noon an ammonia plant in the apple storage warehouse blew up, hampering the work of firemen.

Fire fighting equipment has been rushed from Princeton, 40 miles to the west, and from Penticton, 33 miles away, to assist the Keremeos firemen.

The fire, believed to have started in an engine room, quickly swept through the plant offices. All employees escaped unhurt, but a stenographer, Mrs. Louise Van Unen, was forced to leap from a window. Workers salvaged office files but little else was saved.

Families living near the warehouse piled their furniture on the sidewalk as the fire inched toward their homes. Also threatened are the Elks' Hall, the Legion Centre and Victory Hall.

Esquimalt Home Escapes Damage as Trees Crash in Morning Gale

Hidden behind once-standing timber is modern home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Harris, 1223 Bewdley, Esquimalt, that narrowly missed being wrecked when trees crashed under gale shortly before 8 a.m. today. "It could have been worse," said Mr. and Mrs. Harris as they prepared to clean up mess. Although trees brushed house and one fell across roof, no damage was done.

Drew Denies Similarity With Socreds

Contention Termed 'Nonsense' by Tory

Progressive Conservative leader George Drew labelled as "utter nonsense" the contention that his party and the Social Credit Party have similar philosophies, on his arrival in Victoria today.

On a two-day tour of Vancouver Island centres, Mr. Drew was met at the C.P.R. dock at 8 a.m. today by Major-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., M.P. for Nanaimo.

He called on Premier W. A. C. Bennett at the Legislative Buildings and paid his respects to Lieut.-Governor Clarence Wallace at Government House during the morning.

Mr. Drew addressed members of V.I. United Services Institute at Bay Street Armory, watched preliminaries of a keel-laying ceremony for the new destroyer-escort vessel at V.M.D.'s Dallas Road plant and attended a public reception at Club Sirocco this afternoon.

His comment on the Conservative-Social Credit matter came during an interview when he was told of the belief held by many British Columbians that the two parties are similar.

DOESN'T UNDERSTAND

Asked if he could draw the lines of comparison between the two, the Tory chieftain laughed and said:

"I understand the Conservative policies, but I must confess I can't understand the Social Credit policies."

In reply to a question, he said he saw no danger of his party in B.C. being "swallowed up" by the Social Credit movement.

He then went on to explain the dangers of a country having too many parties.

"If there's one lesson we've learned from France, it's the danger of distributing the representation among a lot of parties. This in the end forces a marriage of utterly incompatible groups for the mere purpose of forming a government," said Mr. Drew.

ENVY OF EUROPE

He added that the British parliament is the envy of all Europe because it has maintained the two-party system.

"The process of democracy is weakened by the formation of several groups," the Tory leader declared.

In the case of Canada, he said, the Conservatives offer the only alternative to the Liberals. His party, he said, is the only one capable of forming a government in the next election.

"A vote for any other party than the Conservative is a vote for the Liberals," he asserted.

In stressing the value of the two-party system, however, Mr. Drew said he respected the views of all other parties—except Communism.

11-Year-Old Hero Saves Lives of Young Sisters

Compiled From C.P. Dispatches

NANAIMO, B.C., Nov. 14 (CP)—Heroism and tragedy stalked hand-in-hand here early this morning when gale-whipped winds carried fire through an Indian Reserve house, killing a fisherman and his wife and three of their six children.

Victims of the blaze, believed started by an over-heated stove, were 37-year-old fisherman Max Thomas, his wife, his brother James, 32, and three children, Elsie, 4, Max Jr. 2 and Patricia, 6 months.

Mrs. Thomas, 35, was the daughter of Chris Paul, well-known resident of the West Saanich Indian Reserve.

The fire, which broke out at a reported 2.40 a.m., was fanned by 45-mile-per-hour winds. In no time the frame building was an inferno. In this nightmare, 11-year-old Clifford kept his head. He rescued nine-year-old sister Masie and, afterwards, eight-year-old Marilyn. He would have rescued more but flames and dense smoke forced him back from the rooms of the others. After dropping Masie and Marilyn through a flame-encircled window he dropped to safety himself.

CHECKED FLAMES

Firemen checked the flames and halted the spread of fire to a nearby woods. Other houses on the reserve escaped damage.

"I thought I heard my father call," said Clifford. "But I could not reach his room."

His parents and the baby were in a room at the rear of the house.

Clifford was forced to jump from a window. He ran to the back of the house but when he opened the door he found the kitchen a mass of flames.

At dawn firemen started search of the fire-blackened debris for bodies. Hours later only three had been found. The others were buried deep in the ruins.

"There was so much wreckage we could only find three of them," a fireman reported.

The Indian reserve is just outside the city limits.

INVESTIGATION LAUNCHED

All available Nanaimo firemen were called to fight the blaze, but were unable to approach close enough to the dwelling to save it.

Police and fire officials have launched an investigation.

U.N. Expert Reports Gas Charge Untrue

SEOUL, Nov. 14 (Friday) (AP)—A sensational charge by South Koreans that Chinese Communists used gas shells early today in capturing Pinpoint Hill was termed unfounded by a United States chemical warfare expert.

Lieut.-Col. Harrison A. Markham, chemical officer of the Ninth Corps, said after an investigation at the front that one soldier was made ill from picric acid fumes from a regular artillery shell.

Another South Korean soldier who was rendered unconscious was found to have been knocked out by a log when a bunker was blown up by an artillery shell, Markham added.

Even as the charges were laid to rest, the never-give-up South Koreans returned to the counter-attack and swept to the top of Pinpoint Hill from which they were knocked a few hours before.

A little less than four hours after they lost the crest, the Koreans struck back in the dark and by 6 a.m. were locked in savage hand-to-hand combat with Chinese Reds on Pinpoint's summit.

No Survivors In Washington Plane Crash

SHELTON, Wash., Nov. 14 (AP)—No survivors were reported by ground crews which reached the wreckage of a four-engine U.S. navy plane Thursday in the rugged Olympic peninsula country of Washington State.

Eleven men were aboard the Privateer which crashed and burned. Four bodies were found immediately by search parties which reported wreckage strewn over a large area.

The other seven passengers were presumed to have died in the crash and explosion of the Privateer which splattered against the forested hillside Wednesday night with a thunderous roar and blinding flash.

Winds Blackout Suburban Areas

Trees, Poles and Power Lines Tumbled As Gale Whips City and Near Neighbors

Telephone wires and power lines and those they serve were the chief victims of the city's first fall windstorm that reached a peak average velocity of 51 miles per hour between 7 and 8 a.m. today.

Highest velocity recorded overnight was 58 miles.

According to the weather forecast, the wind will slacken off late today, and by Saturday will be variable at about 15 miles per hour.

Many trees were blown down.

A tree that crashed on Finnerty Road caused a power failure in Gordon Head, and kept CJVI off the air until 9.32 a.m. instead of its customary morning start at 6 a.m.

Cordova Bay, portions of Saanich, and a large area in Brentwood also were "blacked out" as power lines were severed by wind damage, and Frank Hobbs School at Cadboro Bay was closed for the day.

B.C. Electric officials reported maintenance crews went to work immediately, and hoped to have power restored throughout the area by early afternoon.

DAMAGE GENERAL

Damage was spread equally throughout Greater Victoria.

Four trees blew down shortly before 8 a.m. across the back porch at the home of J. A. Harris, 1223 Bewdley Avenue, Esquimalt, and H. R. Fletcher, 1482 Dallas Road, reported a window smashed.

In the city a number of street lights were broken by powerful gusts, and Wilson and Lenfesty reported a sign torn from its moorings at their Government Street sporting goods store.

Central Saanich Police Chief Vernon Lawley reported several trees down in Saanich and Central Saanich, and two telephone poles across Central Saanich Road.

Oak Bay firemen were called at 5.55 a.m. to a brush fire caused by the power line break at Finnerty Road, and made a later trip to the scene before the fire was extinguished.

Shingles were reported from scattered points in the district as flying in the air as numerous as leaves—having been ripped from both new and old houses by sudden gusts.

Ss. Princess Elizabeth arrived here on time from Vancouver at 7 a.m. today after one of the roughest crossings in years.

"The ship was 'well washed,'" a crewman said.

Ships have kept to sheltered waters, and neither the Gordon Head government wireless station or Salvage King, which monitors the distress frequency, has heard trouble reports.

Only marine grief occurred at 7.37 a.m. at Duncan Bay, north of Campbell River, when the 6,000-ton freighter, Jean Lafitte, dragged her anchor. She was given assistance by the Canadian Fishing Co. vessel Cape Pine.

At noon today the weather office reported the low pressure area that is causing the gale-force winds here was centred at Cape Flattery.

It is moving slowly eastward, and is expected to leave variable cloudiness in its wake Saturday, with temperatures ranging between 40 and 50 degrees.

SATURDAY TIMES TO GIVE FULL WEEK'S TV LIST

A new service to Victoria's fast-growing ranks of televiewers will be started by the Victoria Times in Saturday's edition.

Because televiewers have to plan to stay at home for their programs they like more than the usual 24-hours notice of special programs provided by the regular schedules. To meet this need the Times will print the full schedule of KING, Seattle, for the following week in Saturday's paper. The usual daily programs will be printed as usual.

There are more than 1,000 television sets now operating in this area, it is estimated, and KING is their only reception. Get the full week's programs in Saturday's Times.

Citizens' Group Asks Church Help on Brief

City Congregations Will Be Urged to Sign Petition Seeking Continued Liquor Control

Most Victoria churches will back a petition, asking the provincial government to maintain control of liquor distribution in this province, and to work toward reducing alcohol consumption of British Columbians, Albert Sullivan, president of the Greater Victoria Citizens' Committee, said today.

Copies of the petition will be available at many district churches on Sunday, Mr. Sullivan said, and most ministers have agreed to urge members of their congregations to sign it.

Anglican churches will not participate, however. Their views on the liquor issue have already been expressed in a brief to the government's liquor inquiry commission.

It is the plan of the Citizens' Association to have petition forms circulated in the downtown business district early next week so that as many supporters as possible will have an opportunity to sign.

The petition will be presented to the liquor inquiry board late next week or the week following, whenever the commission next sits here.

It will ask that reduction of alcohol consumption be the major object of the government's liquor policy; that all liquor sales be conducted through government-owned and operated outlets and that such outlets be kept to a minimum; that the government prohibit all liquor advertising; that ample funds from liquor profits be made available for alcohol education and rehabilitation of alcoholics, and that local option privileges be retained and protected.

Preamble of the petition points out that while Canada's population rose 75 per cent between 1923 and 1951, alcohol consumption increased 500 per cent throughout the land. It also submits that increased facilities for sale of alcoholic drink "always increases consumption and intensifies moral and social problems."

The petition also points out that 204,761 B.C. persons vote against sale of spirituous liquor by the glass in a recent plebiscite, and suggests this expression of opinion demands "great caution in any proposed change."

Copies of the petition will be available Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week at McGill & Orme's drug store, Fort and Broad, and at the Victoria Music Centre, 735 View Street.

'Successor' To Lie Now In Hospital

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (AP)—Bellevue Hospital said today that a former United Nations employee stripped off his clothes and said he was divinely-appointed to succeed Trygve Lie as U.N. secretary-general. He was sent to a psychiatric ward.

Police identified the man as Orval Johnson, 25, of Detroit, employed in the U.N. radio news department.

The man went to the U.N. building's 38th floor, where Lie has his offices, Wednesday night to make his declaration.

Mother, Eight Children Die In Home Blaze

WESTPORT, Mass., Nov. 14 (UP).—A mother and eight of her 10 children suffocated in their beds early today before firemen could extinguish a blaze that swept their seven-room home.

The bodies were discovered in four second-floor bedrooms by firemen. The blaze, believed to have started in an over-heated stove, scorched the kitchen and first floor living room but was put out before it spread to the second floor.

Police Chief Charles Dean said none of the bodies was burned. The mother and children apparently suffocated in thick smoke that poured up from below, he said.

Alladin Audet, father of the family, and his teen-age son, Daniel, were at work on the night shift at a nearby Fall River textile mill at the time of the fire.

Malan Accepts Appeal Court Decision

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Nov. 14 (AP). — Premier Daniel Malan's government has decided to accept the South African appeal court ruling that the high court of parliament is illegal, some official Nationalist Party newspapers reported today.

They said the government will fight the next general election with the colored (mixed blood) voters still on the common roll, which means their limited franchise remains intact.

SPANIEL RIDES PLANE PONTOON 2,000 FEET UP, LANDS SAFELY

SEATTLE, Nov. 14 (AP)—It was a routine flight for pilot Roy Aitchison as he gunned his seaplane along at 2,000 feet until he looked out a window. Then he nearly froze with fright.

What he saw was the Aitchison family's pet cocker spaniel pup, Curley, clinging desperately to a pontoon. The dog's tail was toward the front and his fur was blowing like crazy.

Aitchison thought it was hopeless, he related here Thursday, but he throttled the plane down to 60 miles an hour. Then, making a slow turn, he flew back to nearby Lake Sammamish with Curley still hanging on.

In the wash of the landing, he feared the dog would be lost, but the plucky pup hung on.

Immigrant Takes Life In B.C. Jail

VANCOUVER, Nov. 14 (CP)—Caroll Kevan, a 32-year-old immigrant, died in prison today.

He had wanted to stay in Canada when he finished his prison term, but was ordered deported to his native Ireland from where he landed last year.

At 5 a.m. today guards at the B.C. penitentiary found his body hanging to a bar over his cell door. He had hanged himself with a strip of blanket.

"He was ordered deported to Ireland at the end of his term next February," said warden R. S. Douglas. "He was very depressed."

Lumber Ship In Trouble

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14 (AP)—The 250-foot lumber ship Barbara Olson was in distress early today in a Pacific storm off southern Oregon.

San Francisco Coast Guard rescue headquarters said the ship radioed Thursday night its deck load of lumber had shifted and it was listing 15 degrees. It was 123 miles north of Eureka, Calif. That would put it off Gold Beach, Ore.

Cartoonist Called 'Red' By U.K. Tory

LONDON, Nov. 14 (Reuters)—A Conservative member of parliament suggested today that cartoonist David Low is a Communist. His remark was answered with cries of "McCarthyism" from Labor members in the Commons.

Conservative Edward Legge-Bourke, discussing anti-white terrorism in Kenya, said the impression was often given that English settlers living in Kenya were all "blimps."

"Blimp" is a cartoon figure invented by Low to represent die-hard Conservatives. Legge-Bourke said he thought "blimp" was invented by a "Communist cartoonist."

John Strachey, former Labor war minister, jumped up to ask if Legge-Bourke was calling Low a Communist.

"I understood he was anyway," Legge-Bourke replied.

Labor member Leslie Hale termed this a "foul and vicious attack."

SAVE THESE—AND SAVE A LIFE

Carelessness Main Contributor To Traffic Accidents Police Say

Keep Your Car in Shape

Does your car enjoy good health?

Too many cars go to the garages for the same reason that too many human bodies go to hospitals—they never got a square deal, says the A.A.A. driver training book, "Sportsmanlike Driving." As far as garages and hospitals are concerned, there's a good little slogan—Upkeep keeps you out.

Caring for your car is a good example of where "the stitch in time saves nine." Little troubles develop into big breakdowns. For both safety and economy, keep every part of your car in tip top shape.

Follow seven easy rules for simple car care:

1. Keep your car well lubricated.
2. Warm the engine before driving.
3. Drive smoothly at reasonable speeds.
4. Keep tires properly inflated.
5. Check your brakes, lights and horn.
6. Treat your battery right.
7. Have your car garage-inspected regularly.

Point with pride to a car in good health. If you want a square deal from your car, give your car a square deal.

BY ROY THORSEN

Who were the main offenders in 1,063 traffic accidents on city streets last year?

City traffic officers say they were motorists who ignored right-of-way rule of the road and who followed other cars too closely.

Ninety per cent of traffic "grief" causes can be boiled down to "carelessness" on the part of the driver, they said.

Police found that 125 of the year's accidents were caused by the failure to give the right-of-way and the same number for following too close. Motorists should keep at least 50 feet behind the car in front, they stressed.

Next on the list of accident causes was the failure of drivers to stop for stop signs or automatic signals. There were 69 accidents as a result.

Drivers under the influence of alcohol while in control of cars were involved in 41 accidents. Failure to signal or giving improper signals accounted for 36 accidents. Motorists who "cut the corner" were responsible for 33 more collisions.

Motorists who drove over the speed limit were involved in 29 accidents. Cutting in after passing was the cause of another 26 accidents.

ON THE TIMES

"You know what?" asked the boss of our house, "I think that Little Orphan Annie comic strip is a whole lot better than a lot of stuff I've read on Communism and Russia. I think it could do more good, too.

"There's Annie and this big lug who's kidnapped her. They're out in the boat in the storm and he's swept over. She pulls the boat around and helps him to fish himself out. She's got no use for him, but he's a human being, so she helps save his life. The lug's so impressed he tells her he's going to be her friend, whether she likes it or not.

Stott

"Corn, isn't it? Or is it? Maybe that's just one way of [illegible]wing the Commies we've got something [illegible] than they have. Sure, it's corn I guess. The [illegible]le thing's corn.

"I've been reading Annie since she was old enough to be my big sister. She hasn't grown a day older since then. Me, I'm getting grey in the head.

"Just the same, maybe we ought to look into this business of corn a little more. I've got a book with black covers and gold edges that I could read to you. If you didn't recognize the passages, you might tell me that was corn, too. You might, but you'd better not, unless you want your head in a sling.

"We're just too smart these days. When anybody says something that isn't shiny clever, when anybodys says something that's just honest-to-goodness sense and decency, we call it corn.

They Like the Story

"Take Annie, now. She's been out doing a small girl's Horatio Alger routine, with a lot of Christianity thrown into it, for years. Call it corn if you like, but people are still reading it. And they aren't going for it because Annie is drawn with a frizzy head of hair and eyes with no pupils in them. Annie, in her own way, is somebody most people would like to be a little bit like.

"Even Warbucks, the old baldhead, has something. When I was at college my economics professor used to like to talk about him. He furnished a relief from the none-too-flexible laws of economics my professor used to teach.

"So you can call the whole thing escapism. It's that all right, but it's a little more. Annie pulling that lug out of the salt chuck was just doing a little bit of Point Fourism and Colombo Planning her own way, showing the under-developed what makes democratic people tick. 'Tisn't as dumb as it looks, is it?

"Sure, I read about Point Four and the Colombo Plan. You can read about them and sleep at nights without worrying too much about yourself. What are they aimed at?

"Me, I think they're out to do something the same as Annie does. They're out to help people, and to help them to help themselves.

"I'm old enough to know that we're not doing this just to help people—not just to help them alone. We're looking a little ahead with the idea maybe if we give other people a hand they're not going to be quite so tough in their attitude toward us when their turns come.

It Makes You Feel Good

"But I like it when we're helping. And if, while we're doing it, we can show a lot of people—how many is it, a billion?—that we've got something better than the other guys have, maybe they won't want to swing in with the others in case there's more trouble with our side.

"You think maybe that makes sense? Surprising, isn't it, what you can get from reading the comic strips? Just possibly they're not produced for morons. Those of us who look at them get an idea or two, too.

"Now you just keep right on quoting the New York Times, the Manchester Guardian and The Economist. We ought to have more than one source of material in this family. But don't forget the comics. Sometimes they do a job too.

"And if you get a little worried about the corn in Little Orphan Annie, just tell me. I can read you pieces from that black-covered book I was telling you about."

Mind Was 'In Turmoil' Woman Tells Court

Nanaimo Mother Claims She Had No Intent of Causing Injury With Axe

NANAIMO, B.C., Nov. 14 (CP)—A mother, charged jointly with her son of assaulting her estranged husband, testified in Assize Court here Thursday that her mind was "in turmoil" when she broke into a home where he was staying.

her husband Paul, visited their home here where she lives with her son, City Engineer Arthur Leynard, on the day of the affray.

She said she asked her husband to stay home, but he replied "it is too late now."

The mother and son followed him to nearby Royston where he entered the home of Mrs. Jessie Green.

Mrs. Leynard said that after she had knocked at the door for 10 minutes without an answer

Mrs. E. A. Leynard said that she went to the woodshed and got an axe.

Mrs. Leynard told the court she used the axe to break a window, but had no intent of using it to cause injury.

When she entered the house with her son and moved toward a bedroom her husband tried to force her out, she said.

"My main idea was to see who the woman was," she said.

Mrs. Leynard said the woman took refuge in a bathroom and she attempted to break down the door.

Earlier, Paul Leynard told the court that he had been a boarder at Mrs. Green's home for more than a year. He said most of his 36 years of married life had been spent away from home.

Formosa Hit By Typhoon, 65 Known Dead

TAIPEH, Nov. 14 (CP) — A tropical typhoon battered southwest Formosa Thursday night, leaving destruction and death in the important port city of Koahsiung and the nearby Nationalist China Tsoying naval base.

The known toll at those two points exceeded 65 dead and 600 injured.

There were only fragmentary reports from other points isolated by ripped telephone and telegraph lines. Wind velocity was 115 miles an hour at the typhoon's centre.

Official reports said at least 25 were killed, 400 injured and many unaccounted for at Tsoying. More than 100 houses were wrecked there.

First official reports listed 40 killed, more than 200 injured and hundreds of houses wrecked or badly damaged at Kaohsiung.

The Ming Chu Evening News said it had an unofficials report from a police station at Kaohsiung that 30 were killed in its district.

Daughter of Irish Judge Reported Stabbed to Death

WHITE ABBEY, Northern Ireland, Nov. 14 (AP)—A postmortem determined Thursday that pretty, 19-year-old Patricia Curran, co-ed daughter of a high court justice, was stabbed to death and not shot as first reported.

There was no explanation of why the death at first was attributed by police to gunfire.

George Curran, 1405 Vancouver Street, is a cousin of the murdered girl.

His father came to Canada 22 years ago and died in Kamloops last September. His mother still lives here. He has a brother, Terry, in Seattle, and a sister, Mary, also in Victoria.

Mr. Curran was baffled by the tragedy. He could not believe that political differences might have prompted the slaying, but was inclined to think some convicted criminal, or relative of a convicted man or woman, might have made the killing a means of revenge.
